2013 ESPN FRANCHISE RANKINGS

Every year, ESPN The Magazine compiles the results of fan surveys and financial analysis to determine which teams in the NFL, NBA, MLB and NHL offer the greatest rewards for all the emotion, money and time that fans invest in them. The rankings are determined by a multi-tiered analysis that examines a team's efficiency in spending fan money as compared to its on-field performance. It also factors in feedback in 25 sub-categories from more than 60,000 fans nationwide, both online at ESPN.com and in polling conducted by independent third parties. In 2013, the Baltimore Ravens ranked as the 10th-best overall sports franchise and the second-best NFL franchise.

2013 SEASON REVIEW / 2014 KEY INFORMATION

SEASON OVERVIEW

For the first time since 2008 – the year the Ravens hired John Harbaugh – Baltimore did not make the playoffs, coming one game short with an 8-8 mark and placing third in the AFC North (the Ravens were 3-3 in the division, splitting with all three rivals). ... Baltimore played an NFL-high nine games decided by 3 points or less (5-4 record in those contests). ... How close were the Ravens to making the playoffs? They were tied 17-17 near the end of the third quarter in the season-ending loss at Cincinnati. ... The Ravens, Colts, Patriots and Packers are the only teams to earn a playoff berth in five of the previous six seasons, with Baltimore making six postseason appearances in the past eight years.

DEFENSE

• The Ravens' third-down "D" (33.5%) ranked third in the NFL, while their red zone unit (48.8%) was seventh. Baltimore's final defensive NFL rankings: points (12th), net yards (12th), passing (12th) & rushing (11th).

• LB Daryl Smith had 19 passes defensed, setting a Ravens' record by a linebacker (Ray Lewis, 13 in 2003). Smith finished with career highs in sacks (5), INTs (3) & PD (19) and led the team in tackles (123).

• OLB Terrell Suggs (10) and OLB Elvis Dumervil (9.5) combined for 19.5 sacks, with Suggs earning his sixth Pro Bowl invite. NT Haloti Ngata was elected to his fifth Pro Bowl, while CB Lardarius Webb's 22 PD ranked as the NFL's second most.

OFFENSE

• QB Joe Flacco set career highs in passing yards (3,912), but also INTs (22), throwing for 19 TDs. Flacco engineered four game-winning drives in the fourth quarter/overtime.

• WR Torrey Smith tallied 1,128 receiving yards, the second most in single-season team history (Michael Jackson - 1,201 in 1996). Smith had a career-high 65 catches, posting the NFL's fifth-best yards-per-catch average (17.4).

• Undrafted rookie WR Marlon Brown's 7 receiving TDs tied (Torrey Smith, 2011) for the most by a rookie in team history and tied (Detroit TE Joseph Fauria) for the most by a 2013 rookie free agent. Brown finished second (Torrey Smith, 2011) in catches (49) and receiving yards (524) by a Ravens' rookie.

SPECIAL TEAMS

• The Ravens' kickoff return unit averaged 26.4 yards per return, ranking second in the NFL. Baltimore's punt return unit averaged 14.2 yards per return, good for the NFL's third-best mark. The Ravens posted an NFL-high 20 punt returns of 20-plus yards.

• Pro Bowl K Justin Tucker set franchise records in FGs made (38) and FGs attempted (41), with both figures tying (NE K Stephen Gostkowski) for the NFL's most. Tucker produced a franchise-record 140 points (tied for sixth in NFL), while his 6 FGs of 50-plus yards tied (several players) for the NFL's most. The second-year Tucker kicked 3 game-winning FGs in 2013, including a 61-yarder at Detroit.

2013 HONOR ROLL

WR MARLON BROWN

• Pepsi NEXT Rookie of the Week - Week 14 at Min.
Brown had 7 receptions for 92 yards and a touchdown in the Ravens' 29-26 victory over the Minnesota Vikings. His score was a 9-yard game-winner with 4 seconds left in the game.

QB JOE FLACCO

• GMC Never Say Never Moment of the Week - Week 14 vs. Min.
Flacco threw a 9-yard TD pass to WR Marlon Brown with 4 seconds left, capping a frenzied final two minutes and lifting the Ravens to a thrilling 29-26 win. Despite playing in a snowstorm, the Ravens and Vikings combined for 5 touchdowns in the game's final 125 seconds. The Flacco-to-Brown score finished a five-play, 80-yard drive that eclipsed all but four of the game's final 45 seconds.

NT HALOTI NGATA

• Pro Bowl - Fifth Invite
Ngata posted 52 tackles (23 solo), 1.5 sacks (-12 yards) and had 3 PD as part of the Ravens' 12th-ranked defense.

OLB TERRELL SUGGS

• Pro Bowl - Sixth Invite
Suggs tallied a team-best 10 sacks (-48 yards) and finished third on the team with 80 tackles. It marked the fifth time in his career that he posted double-digit sacks in a season.

K JUSTIN TUCKER

• Pro Bowl - First Invite • Associated Press First-Team All-Pro
• Sporting News First-Team All-Pro • PFWA First-Team All-Pro
Tucker set franchise records in FGs made (38) and FGs attempted (41), with both figures tying (NE K Stephen Gostkowski) for the NFL's most. Making 38 of 41 FGAs, Tucker produced a franchise-record 140 points (tied for sixth in NFL), while his 6 FGs of 50+ yards tied (several players) for the NFL's most. He kicked 3 game-winning FGs in 2013, including a 61-yarder at Detroit.

• AFC Special Teams Player of the Month - November
Tucker finished November 14-of-14 on FG attempts, going 3-for-3 from 50-plus-yards. He scored 49 points during the month. It marked Tucker's first-career Player of the Month Award.

• AFC Special Teams Player of the Week - Week 15 at Det.
• GMC Never Say Never Moment of the Week - Week 15 at Det.
Against Detroit, Tucker was 6-for-6 on FGAs, posting a franchise-record 61-yard game-winner. It marked the sixth overall game-winner of his career (5 regular season, 1 playoffs). The 6 FGs set a single-game team record and were the most in a 2013 NFL game. Tucker became the first kicker in NFL history to connect from the 20-, 30-, 40-, 50- and 60-yard range in a game.

• AFC Special Teams Player of the Week - Week 12 vs. NYJ
Tucker scored 13 points, connecting on 4 FGAs (30, 26, 33, 53) and his lone PAT in the 19-3 win over New York.

• AFC Special Teams Player of the Week - Week 10 vs. Cin.
Tucker kicked his fifth-career game-winning FG (a 46-yarder in overtime), as well as one other FG in regulation (36 yards), and 2 PATs in the 20-17 win over Cincinnati.

CB LARDARIUS WEBB

• USA TODAY All-Joe Team
Webb posted the NFL's second-most PD (22), adding 2 INTs and a career-high 74 tackles (63 solo).

G MARSHAL YANDA

• Pro Bowl - Third Invite • Sporting News First-Team All-Pro
Yanda earned his third-straight Pro Bowl honor, helping QB Joe Flacco set a career high with 3,912 passing yards.

2013 SEASON HIGHLIGHTS / 2014 INFO

HARBAUGH WINS 2013 SALUTE TO SERVICE AWARD

The NFL awarded head coach John Harbaugh the 2013 Salute to Service Award, presented by USAA. The award was created to acknowledge the exceptional efforts by members of the NFL community to honor and support military members and their families. Harbaugh took part in the annual NFL-USO coaches' tour of the Middle East in 2009, has visited numerous military bases in the U.S. and abroad, has purchased school supplies for children whose parents are serving in the military and sent care packages to troops overseas. This February, Harbaugh made another visit to troops in the Middle East. Harbaugh helped institute Military Appreciation Day, an annual event that takes place during Ravens training camp. He also took the Ravens to Gettysburg, PA, during offseason team activities to learn about the Civil War, and he invites wounded warriors as his guests to every Ravens home game. In 2012, Harbaugh was presented with the Outstanding Civilian Service Award by Army Chief of Staff General Raymond Odierno.

2014 COACHING CHANGES

• Gary Kubiak was hired as offensive coordinator following the departure of Jim Caldwell, who was tabbed as Detroit's new head coach. Kubiak, a 21-year NFL coaching veteran, spent the past eight seasons (2006-13) as head coach of the Houston Texans. Under Kubiak, the Texans earned their Top 6 all-time offensive outputs in scoring, total offense and passing yards from 2007-12. During this time, the Texans also boasted the franchise's Top 3 rushing outputs, including the NFL's No. 2 ground attack in 2011 when they posted a franchise-record 153.0 yards per game. From 2008-12, Kubiak's "O" was one of only two teams (Denver) to have their total offense, passing offense and rushing offense each rank in the Top 5 at least once during that span.

• Rick Dennison joined the Ravens as their quarterbacks coach. Dennison is a 20-year NFL coaching veteran who served the past four seasons (2010-13) on Kubiak's staff as the Texans' offensive coordinator. Prior to joining Houston in 2010, Dennison spent his entire NFL career with the Denver Broncos – as a player from 1982-90 and as a coach from 1995-2009.

• Thomas Hammock was hired as the team's running backs coach. An 11-year collegiate coaching veteran, Hammock joins the NFL after spending the past three seasons (2011-13) as the University of Wisconsin's assistant head coach/running backs coach/recruiting coordinator. During Hammock's three seasons as Wisconsin's RBs coach, the Badgers ranked third nationally in rushing yards per attempt (5.7), fourth in rushing touchdowns (121) and seventh overall in rushing yards per game (251.1 ypg), with each category also leading the Big Ten during this span.

• Brian Pariani was hired as the Ravens' tight ends coach. Pariani, who enters his 24th season of NFL coaching, spent the past eight years (2006-13) as the Houston Texans' tight ends coach while serving under Kubiak.

• Bobby Engram was hired as the Ravens' wide receivers coach after spending the past two seasons (2012-13) in the same capacity at the University of Pittsburgh. He began his coaching career as an offensive assistant with the San Francisco 49ers in 2011 following a 14-year NFL playing career as a wideout.

• The Ravens appointed Steve Spagnuolo as secondary coach while promoting him to assistant head coach. A 16-year NFL coaching veteran, Spagnuolo was hired as the Ravens' senior defensive assistant in 2013. Prior to his Baltimore arrival, Spagnuolo was defensive coordinator for the Saints (2012) and head coach of the St. Louis Rams (2009-11). He replaced Teryl Austin, who was hired as Detroit's defensive coordinator.

2013 INJURY REPORT

Ravens starters missed a combined 36 games in 2013:

• On offense, G Kelechi Osemele (back) missed nine games after being placed on Injured Reserve. WR/RS Jacoby Jones (knee) missed four contests, while RB Ray Rice (hip) missed one. TE Dennis Pitta, who sustained a dislocated/broken hip on the first day of training camp, missed 12 games after being placed on Injured Reserve - Designated for Return, but played in the season's final four contests.

• For the defense, DT Arthur Jones (concussion/illness) missed the season's first and last games, while NT Haloti Ngata (knee) and DE Chris Canty (thigh) each sat out one game. LB Jameel McClain, the team's 2013 Ed Block Courage Award recipient, returned from a serious spinal cord contusion suffered in 2012. However, he missed the season's first six games.

2013 NUMBERS TO RAVE ABOUT

9

Games the Ravens played in 2013 that were decided by 3 points or less, marking an NFL high. (NE was second with 7 such contests.) Baltimore was 5-4 in these games.

17.4

Yards-per-catch average by WR Torrey Smith, who posted career highs in catches (65) and receiving yards (1,128). The 17.4 ranked as the NFL's fifth-best mark, while the 1,128 stand as the second most in Ravens single-season history.

19.5

Combined sacks by OLB Terrell Suggs (10) and OLB Elvis Dumervil (9.5). Suggs had 33.5 QB knockdowns/hurries, while Dumervil posted 28.5.

33

Consecutive field goals made by K Justin Tucker during the 2013 season, marking the NFL's fourth-longest streak ever. Tucker finished the year 38-of-41 on FGAs.

96

Consecutive regular season starts by QB Joe Flacco, who has never missed a game in his six NFL seasons. Including playoffs, Flacco has started 109-straight games.

9,214

RB Ray Rice
• Surpassed Jamal Lewis (9,166) as the Ravens' all-time leader in total yards from scrimmage (9,214)
• Finished second on the team with 58 receptions for 321 yards

LB Daryl Smith
• Led the Ravens with 123 tackles (57 solo) and set career highs in sacks (5 for -43.5 yards), INTs (3 for 41 return yards) and PD (19)
• Set a Ravens' franchise record for a linebacker with 19 PD (Ray Lewis, 13 in 2003)
• His 19 PD tied for sixth overall in the NFL and tied for first among linebackers (Arizona's Karlos Dansby)
• Scored his first-career touchdown when he returned an INT 37 yards vs. Hou. (9/22/13)

CB Jimmy Smith
• Started all 16 games for the first time in his career
• Established career highs in tackles (58), solo tackles (49), PD (16), and FFs (2), also posting a career-high-tying 2 INTs

WR Torrey Smith
• Led the team with career highs in receptions (65) and receiving yards (1,128 – second most in single-season team history), also posting a career-high-tying 17.4 yards per catch average and 4 TDs
• Became the first Ravens player since 2009 (Derrick Mason - 1,028) to produce 1,000-plus receiving yards in a season
• His 17.4 yards-per-catch average ranked fifth in the NFL
• Recorded a career-high 166 receiving yards at Buf. (9/29/13), the third-most in Ravens single-game history

OLB Terrell Suggs
• Earned his sixth Pro Bowl after leading the team with 10 sacks (fifth time in his career he has produced double-digit sacks)
• Finished third on the team with 80 tackles (47 solo) and had 1 FR
• With 762 career tackles, Suggs surpassed Kelly Gregg (721) for second all time in franchise history
• Tied a franchise record with at least 1 sack in five-consecutive games (Paul Kruger, 2012 and Adalius Thomas, 2005 and 2006)
• Has played in 165 career games, ranking fourth most in Ravens franchise history

K Justin Tucker
• Earned his first-career Pro Bowl honor and was named Special Teams Player of the Month (November)
• Had a team-record 38 FGs and 41 FGAs (both tied NE's Stephen Gostkowski for NFL's most)
• Tucker's 6 field goals made on 12/16 at Det. are a team record and were a single-game NFL high in 2013
• Kicked 3 game-winning FGs, including a team-record 61-yarder at Det.
• Made 33-straight FGs at one point during the season, ranking as the NFL's fourth-longest streak of all time

CB Lardarius Webb
• Started all 16 games for the first time in his career and was named to USA Today's All-Joe Team
• Recorded career highs in tackles (74), solo tackles (led the Ravens with 63), PD (led Ravens with 22) and recorded 2 INTs
• His 22 PD ranked as the NFL's second most

G Marshal Yanda
•Started all 16 games and earned his third-consecutive Pro Bowl

COACH HARBAUGH NOTES

COACH HARBS

John Harbaugh has led Baltimore to a playoff berth in five (2008-12) of his first six seasons, and in 2012, captured the franchise's second Super Bowl championship. Under his guidance, the Ravens have also secured an appearance in three AFC Championship games (2008, 2011 and 2012).

Here are several Harbaugh quick hits:

- Super Bowl Record 1-0

• The Ravens are one of only four teams (GB, Ind. and NE) to earn a playoff berth in five of the past six seasons, doing so from 2008-12. Baltimore also won at least one playoff game in each of those years.

• Harbaugh is the only head coach in NFL history to win a playoff game in each of his first four and five seasons. (The Ravens made the playoffs from 2008-12.)

• John and his brother, Jim of the 49ers, are the only head coaches to advance to three conference title games in the first five years as NFL bosses.

• Harbaugh, George Seifert (49ers) and Mike Holmgren (Packers) own the most playoff victories (9) by an NFL head coach in the first six seasons of a coaching career (since the 1970 merger).

• Harbaugh has guided the Ravens to 62 regular season wins since 2008, ranking third most in the NFL (Baltimore is 62-34). Including playoffs (9-4), the Ravens are 71-38 under Harbaugh, posting the NFL's second-most total wins since his Baltimore arrival.

RAVENS' TWO-STRAIGHT TOP 5'S

In 2013, senior NFL writer Rick Gosselin of The Dallas Morning News ranked the Ravens' special teams unit No. 5 in the league in his annual comprehensive ratings system that is based on 22 categories, assigning points according to each standing — 1 for best, 32 for worst. In 2012, Gosselin ranked the Ravens' unit No. 2 in the NFL, just behind the Vikings, who finished first.

SPECIAL FORCES

Associate head coach/special teams coordinator Jerry Rosburg, a 36-year coaching veteran, has guided a strong special teams group since arriving in Baltimore in 2008.

• In 2013, Pro Bowl K Justin Tucker set franchise records in FGs made (38) and FGs attempted (41). Going 38-of-41 on FGAs, Tucker produced a franchise-record 140 points (tied for sixth in NFL), while his 6 FGs of 50+ yards tied (several players) for the NFL's most. Tucker kicked an impressive 3 game-winning FGs on the season, including a 61-yarder at Detroit.

• Additionally, in 2013, the Ravens' kickoff return unit averaged 26.4 yards per return, ranking second in the NFL. Baltimore's punt return unit averaged 14.2 yards per return, good for the NFL's third-best mark. The Ravens posted an NFL-high 20 punt returns of 20+ yards.

• In 2012's Super Bowl-winning season, the Ravens' special teams units excelled. Led by Pro Bowl RS Jacoby Jones, Baltimore ranked first in the NFL in kickoff return average (27.3), also setting a team record. Jones, who became the first player ever to record dual KORs of at least 105 yards in a career, tied for a league-leading 3 kick return TDs (2 KORs & 1 PR) and averaged an NFL-best 30.7 yards per kickoff return. Jones also tied an NFL record for longest KOR in Super Bowl history with his 108-yard KOR-TD.

• Prior to Baltimore, Rosburg built a successful NFL special teams resume both with the Browns (2001-06) and Falcons (2007). Under his leadership, Cleveland's special teams units were consistently ranked among the NFL's best. Over a five-year span (2002-06), the Browns' special teams were ranked as the top NFL unit in Rick Gosselin's annual comprehensive special teams report.

• Four Ravens players have earned Pro Bowl honors while playing for Rosburg: ST Brendon Ayanbadejo (2008), K Billy Cundiff (2010), RS Jacoby Jones (2012) and K Justin Tucker (2013).

• Dating back to 2011, Baltimore has produced 6 total kick return TDs (3 PR & 3 KOR), tying (Den., Min. & Ten.) for the NFL's most.

A STRONG RETURN

Dating back to 2008 when Jerry Rosburg became the Ravens' special teams coordinator, Baltimore has produced the NFL's No. 1 kickoff return average (25.0) and fourth-most KOR-TDs (5).

COORDINATORS NOTES

THE KUBIAK ATTACK

Gary Kubiak, a 21-year NFL coaching veteran who spent the past eight seasons (2006-13) as head coach of the Houston Texans, was hired as the Ravens' offensive coordinator on Jan. 27. Under his guidance, Houston earned back-to-back AFC South crowns from 2011-12 and two playoff berths. Kubiak owns a Texans' franchise-record 63 total wins, posting a 63-66 overall mark (61-64 regular season, 2-2 postseason).

• Prior to his time with the Texans, Kubiak spent 11 seasons (1995-2005) as the Denver Broncos' offensive coordinator, also coaching the quarterbacks during his first eight seasons. Under his guidance, Denver's offense reached new heights behind the likes of QB John Elway, TE Shannon Sharpe and RB Terrell Davis, with the team earning seven postseason trips and back-to-back Super Bowl titles (1997-98) during that span. As Denver's offensive coordinator, the Broncos averaged NFL bests in yards per game (365.0) and points per game (25.2) from 1995-2005.

TEXANS SUCCESS

Under Gary Kubiak, the Texans earned their Top 6 all-time offensive outputs in scoring, total offense and passing yards from 2007-12. During this time, the Texans also boasted the franchise's Top 3 rushing outputs, including the NFL's No. 2 ground attack in 2011 when they posted a franchise-record 153.0 yards per game. From 2008-12, Kubiak's offense was one of only two teams (Denver) to have its total offense, passing offense and rushing offense each rank in the Top 5 at least once during that span.

HOUSTON TEXANS OFFENSIVE RANKINGS (2006-13 Under Gary Kubiak)

OFFENSIVE QUICK HITS

• Since John Harbaugh's arrival (2008), two of the Ravens' Top 3 single-game scoring outputs have occured: 55 vs. Oak. (11/11/12) and 48 vs. Det. (12/13/09). (Baltimore also scored 48 on 12/19/05 vs. GB.)

• Under Harbaugh, the Ravens have totaled at least 400 yards 19 times, producing an 18-1 mark in those games. Baltimore has piled up at least 375 net yards 27 times since '08, producing a 24-3 record in those contests.

PEES LEADS THE "D"

Dean Pees, a 10-year NFL-coaching veteran, was promoted to defensive coordinator on Jan. 27, 2012, after guiding the Ravens' LBs for two seasons. He is the sixth "D" coordinator in franchise history. Pees, who was New England's "D" coordinator from 2006-09, leads a Baltimore unit that in 2013 finished with the following NFL rankings: points (22.0 ppg, 12th), net yards (335.5 ypg, 12th), passing (230.1 ypg, 12th) and rushing (105.4 ypg, 11th).

NEWSOME'S NFL TREE

GM Ozzie Newsome also fosters a working environment that breeds standout coaches. By bringing in individuals who embrace the "Raven way," Newsome aims to create a synergy that manufactures success among scouts, coaches and players. As a result, Baltimore has had many assistants move on to become head coaches on the collegiate and NFL levels.

Consecutive games started by WR Torrey Smith, the third-longest active streak among NFL wide receivers.

80

Straight starts made by T Michael Oher, the fourth-longest active streak among NFL tackles. Oher has not missed a game in his career.

96

Consecutive starts by QB Joe Flacco, the most in team history. (Former OLB Jarret Johnson, currently playing for San Diego, made 80-straight starts for the Ravens from 2007-11.) Including playoffs, Flacco has started 109-consecutive games, which is the most ever by an NFL QB in the first six seasons of a career.

109

Straight games played by CB Corey Graham in his seven-year career, the second-longest active streak (112 - William Gay) by an NFL CB.

LITTLE GIVE, PLENTY TAKE

Since head coach John Harbaugh took over the Ravens in 2008, Baltimore has compiled a +36 turnover margin, ranking as the NFL's fourth-best mark. (The Ravens were -5 in 2013.)

OFFENSIVE PLAYER NOTES

DEEP THREAT

Third-year WR Torrey Smith ranked fifth in the NFL with a 17.4 yards-per-catch average in 2013, posting a career-high 1,128 yards on 65 receptions. Smith's 1,128 yards rank as the second most in Ravens single-season history (Michael Jackson – 1,201 in 1996) and were the NFL's 17th most in 2013.

SMITH WAS SCINTILLATING

WR Torrey Smith excelled in 2013. With 6 receptions for 121 yards in Week 5 at Miami, Smith became the first Raven since Qadry Ismail in 1999 to post back-to-back 100-yard receiving games. (Ismail had three straight that year.)

• In Week 15 at Detroit, Smith (now 37) moved past Derrick Mason (35) to produce a franchise record in receptions of 25-or-more yards.

• Smith had 13 catches gaining 25-plus yards in 2013, just 1 shy of the franchise single-season record set by WR Michael Jackson (14) in 1996.

• Smith's 1,128 receiving yards in 2013 were the second most in Ravens single-season franchise history (Jackson – 1,201 in 1996).

• Smith, who produced a 17.4-yard receiving average in 2013, pulled in a 42-yard bomb in Week 16 vs. NE, marking his eighth catch of 40-or-more yards in 2013.

NOTE THE SMITH QUOTE

Rookie WR Marlon Brown on Smith's leadership: "If you're having a tough day of practice, everyone is hurting and tired, usually I just look over at Torrey, and I just see how he responds. He responds with a good attitude, so I'm going to get out there and respond with a good attitude. If something is going wrong, or if I need help with something, I go to Torrey before I go to anybody. He's our leader."

TORREY'S COURAGEOUS NIGHT

WR Torrey Smith played in the 2012 Week 3 Sunday night victory over New England after his brother, 19-year-old Tevin Jones, passed away in a motorcycle accident that morning. Smith posted 6 catches for 127 yards and 2 TDs in the come-from-behind win, producing the third 100-yard game of his young career.

SMITH BIG IN SUPER BOWL RUN

In the 2012 thrilling, double-overtime Divisional Playoff win at Denver (38-35 on 1/12/13), WR Torrey Smith caught 59-yard and 32-yard TD passes, helping mark the first game in NFL playoff history that a QB (Joe Flacco) threw 2 TDs of 59-plus yards (the other being to WR Jacoby Jones on a 70-yarder). In the 2012 postseason, Smith recorded a 21.2 yards-per-catch average, reeling in 11 passes for 233 yards.

LONG BALL LOVE

WR Torrey Smith ranks first in Ravens franchise history in yards-per-catch average, posting a 17.2 mark over the three seasons in which he's caught 164 passes for 2,824 yards and 19 TDs. Dating back to his rookie campaign (2011), his 17.2 average ranks fifth in the NFL.

In 2011's Week 11 game vs. Cin., WR Torrey Smith set a Ravens' single-season and single-game record for receiving yards by a rookie, totaling 165 yards on 6 catches (27.5 avg.). In 2011, he had 50 catches for 841 yards and a Ravens' rookie-record 7 TDs.

Smith Quick Hits:

• Smith's 26-yard TD catch with 8 seconds remaining in 2011's Week 9 at Pit. capped a 92-yard drive and sealed the Ravens' 23-20 win.

• Impressively, 5 of his 7 TD receptions in 2011 covered at least 25 yards (74, 41, 38, 36, 26, 18 and 8 yards), and he averaged a sensational 34.4 yards-per-TD catch.

• Never before has a Ravens' wideout registered dual 150-yard receiving games in a season (165 vs. Cin. and 152 at STL). Smith also posted the Top 2 receiving yards outputs by a rookie in the NFL in 2011.

DEFENSIVE PLAYER NOTES

DEFENSIVE PLAYER NOTES

D. SMITH STOUT IN THE MIDDLE

Ravens ILB Daryl Smith, who signed as a free agent (Jax.) in 2013, was outstanding in his first year as a Raven. Smith, who led the team with 123 tackles, was one of just three NFL defenders to post at least 100 tackles, 5 sacks and 3 INTs. Impressively, his 19 PD rank as a Ravens' record among LBs in a season (Ray Lewis, 13 in 2003) and tied for the NFL's fifth most in 2013. In one of his top games, a Week 15 matchup at Detroit, Smith had 5 stops, 1 INT and 1 sack in the Ravens' 18-16 win.

TANGLED IN THE WEBB

Ravens CB/RS Lardarius Webb led the Ravens with 22 passes defensed in 2013, a total that ranked second in the NFL (Tennessee's Alterraun Verner had 23). Webb, who missed most of the 2012 campaign with a torn ACL, returned to action in 2013 and helped guide a Ravens' secondary that allowed just 56.9 percent of opponent passes to be completed. That mark stood as the NFL's third-best defensive figure.

J. SMITH JAMMIN'

Ravens CB Jimmy Smith, the team's 2011 first-round draft pick (27th overall), was outstanding in 2013. Smith totaled 16 passes defensed (third most on the team), adding 2 INTs, 2 forced fumbles and 58 total tackles in his first season as a regular starter. In the season's final 15 games, the Ravens allowed just 18 passing TDs, tied (New Orleans) for the NFL's sixth fewest. Baltimore also yielded 215.7 net passing yards a game during this span, the NFL's eighth-best mark.

THE DOMINANT DT

One of the NFL's most disruptive forces, DT Haloti Ngata was named to his fifth Pro Bowl in 2013. Perhaps the NFL's most athletic defensive tackle, Ngata stops the run (497 career tackles), rushes the passer (23.5 career sacks) and can even drop into coverage (3 career INTs).

Baltimore has a history of strong run defense, and with Ngata's help since 2006, has been consistently sturdy on the ground.

SPECIAL TEAMS PLAYER NOTES

JACOBY'S JAUNTS

Two seasons ago (in 2012), Pro Bowler WR/RS Jacoby Jones posted 2 KOR-TDs (108 yards and 105 yards) and was the NFL's only player with dual KOR-TDs. He also became the first Raven to ever have multiple KOR-TDs in a single season and a career. (Jones now has 3 regular season KOR-TDs and 1 playoff KOR-TD as a Raven.) With a 29.8 career return mark in Baltimore, Jones is the Ravens' all-time leader in KOR average (listed below).

3.	Yamon Figurs (2007-08)	75	1,746	23.3	94t	1

NFL Record Note:

• In 2012, Jones became the only player in NFL history to record dual KOR-TDs of at least 105 yards in a career (108- & 105-yarders). Minnesota's Cordarrelle Patterson has since joined him, doing so in 2013 (105- & 109-yarders).

PRIME PUNT RETURNER

Since entering the NFL in 2007, WR/RS Jacoby Jones has registered the NFL's second-most PR yards (2,398 on 235 returns). Jones has returned 4 punts for TDs during this time, including a 63-yarder in 2012's Week 11 win at Pit. He also owns 8 punt returns of 50-or-more yards, including three 70-plus-yarders that produced TDs.

DOSS STEPS UP

Splitting time with WR/RS Jacoby Jones as the Ravens' punt returner, WR/RS Tandon Doss was spectacular when called to action in 2013. In the Week 3 win over Houston, Doss posted an 82-yard PR-TD, which is the fifth longest in team history. On 23 PRs in 2013, he tallied a 15.6 average, which ranked first in the NFL.

A DIFFERENCE-MAKER

• In 2013's Week 14 thrilling win over Minnesota, WR/RS Jacoby Jones ripped off his fourth-career KOR-TD and his third as a Raven when he sped 77 yards to help give the Ravens a 22-19 lead with 1:16 remaining in the game.

• Including playoffs, Jones has 5-career KOR-TDs (4 in two seasons as a Raven, with one memorable highlight being his 108-yard Super Bowl XLVII return in New Orleans).

• Jones returned 14 kickoffs for 442 yards and 1 TD over the 2013 season's final five games, sporting a 31.6-yard average.

SPECIAL TEAMS UNIT RECEIVES HIGH MARK... AGAIN

In 2013, senior NFL writer Rick Gosselin of The Dallas Morning News ranked the Ravens' special teams unit No. 5 in the league in his annual comprehensive ratings system that is based on 22 categories, assigning points according to each standing — 1 for best, 32 for worst. In 2012, Gosselin ranked the Ravens' unit No. 2 in the NFL, just behind the Vikings, who finished first.

JUST FOR KICKS

In 2013, K Justin Tucker earned his first Pro Bowl honor by setting team records in FGs made (38) and FGs attempted (41), with both figures tying (Stephen Gostkowski) for the NFL's most. Tucker had a franchise-record 140 points (tied for sixth in NFL), while his 6 FGs of 50+ yards tied (several players) for the NFL's most.

• In addition to his Pro Bowl honor, Tucker was named Special Teams Player of the Month (November) and AFC Special Teams Player of the Week three times.

• Tucker made 33-straight FGs at one point during the 2013 season, ranking as the NFL's fourth-longest streak of all time.

• His 6 FGs made on 12/16 at Detroit set a team record and were a single-game NFL high in 2013. Against the Lions, he became the first NFL kicker ever to connect from the 20-, 30-, 40-, 50- and 60-yard range in a game.

• Tucker kicked 3 game-winning FGs in 2013, including a franchise-record 61-yarder at Detroit. (He now has 6-career game-winners.)

• He is now 24-of-26 during his career when the Ravens are losing a game, and he's 16-of-17 when Baltimore is down by 7 points or less. The Pro Bowler is 12-of-13 in the last 2 minutes of a game during his career, and he's 22-of-24 in the fourth quarter.

OVERHEARD ABOUT TUCK

Former Ravens kicker and Ring of Honor inductee Matt Stover on K Justin Tucker:

"He's got good, high character, and that's very important. But more than anything, when you look at what he's able to do, he is just going to learn and continue to learn. He's not one of those guys that thinks he has it all figured it out, and that's the key. You never want someone to be content or to be fine staying status quo. You want someone who wants to get better, and I know he wants to do that."

ESPN.com*'s Kevin Seifert on K Justin Tucker:

"It helps that Tucker is a delightfully even-keeled personality who felt compelled, first and foremost, to joke Monday night (12/16/13 at Detroit) about his impact on fantasy football playoffs. He doesn't appear to be a person easily affected by pressure."

QUOTH THE RAVENS

BALTIMORE FOOTBALL

"The thing I love about our football team is that we are a team of faith. We believe. We trust. Because of that, we'll fight. We will run the race right down to the end. That's something that our football team does. I'm very proud of them for that."

- John Harbaugh on overcoming adversity and battling back

TEAM QUOTES

Head coach John Harbaugh on the Ravens' motivation heading into the 2014 offseason:
"I know one thing: Our players are more motivated than ever. So, it's a different problem than last year, that's for sure. I had a chance to text some guys and talk to some guys over the weekends when [playoff] games were being played. Our guys weren't real happy about not playing. I like that. I like the fact that they're not pleased with sitting home at watching. So, we should come back more highly-motivated than ever. Like [owner] Steve [Bisciotti] talked about, we've had probably more gut-wrenching losses in the playoffs than we had this year. But, we were in the playoffs. It's just not acceptable, and I like the fact that [our players] are not happy about it."

Owner Steve Bisciotti reflecting on the Ravens' 2013 season:
"I think your heart wants to react quickly [to not making the playoffs]. I think your head, if you are a wise businessman, you take time, and you listen to a lot of people, and you contemplate a lot of different things. But, failure is part of success. We're all very disappointed here, as disappointed, obviously, as our fans are – more so. I'm comfortable with where we are; I'm comfortable where we're headed."

BaltimoreRavens.com*'s John Eisenberg on the 2013 Ravens:
"In the sweeping theatrical production that is the NFL, every team plays a certain character, fills a role. There are royals. There are peasants. There are court jesters. There are dashing young men destined to break your heart. There are radicals, over-the-hill knights, honorable soldiers and Rex Ryan's team. (See if you can match those archetypes with teams. It's fun.) Who are the Ravens? I see them as the savvy gladiator, calm in conflict, knowing what it takes to prevail – a role they have almost perfected."

The Baltimore Sun*'s Childs Walker on the Ravens:
"I've said from early in the season that resilience has been the overlooked trump card for the Ravens in the era of John Harbaugh and Joe Flacco. No matter how helpless they look in stretches, no matter how painful a loss they suffer, they never quit on games, and they never quit on seasons."

Ravens WR Torrey Smith on the Ravens' mentality:
"No one throws in the towel. No one doubts for a second that we aren't going to get it done no matter what the situation is."

OLB Terrell Suggs on the Ravens' mentality:
"We are pretty much battle-tested against anything a team can throw against us. We just keep trucking along. This team is very tough and very mentally strong."

RB Ray Rice on the longstanding mentality of the Ravens:
"We've always been underdogs. There's something about the Ravens, something about us [that] we've always been underdogs. I don't think it's something that our guys read into. I think we've embraced being the villain at times. We don't mind going into the game saying that we're the underdog. We don't mind that kind of stuff, because when you overcome it, [you gain confidence]. We were never the perfect football team. We won a Super Bowl last year, but we were never the perfect football team. We just found ways to win games, and that's the kind of football team we are."

CBSSports.com*'s Jason La Canfora on the Ravens' reputation:
"They are first-class from the owner on down. People want to work for them, and players want to play for them. They are an elite franchise in every sense of the word in any way you want to evaluate it."

DE Chris Canty on the Ravens' work ethic:
"This is the hardest-working team I have been around. And, the speed and tempo of our practices have us ready for games. The work pays off. The way we practice makes us feel uncomfortable at times, but that's what happens in games. Games aren't scripted. Coach [Harbaugh] wants us to be battle-hardened. He wants a tough-minded team. The kind of rigorous work we do produces that kind of team. Now that I'm a Raven, I see why it works."

PERSONNEL QUOTES

Giants GM Jerry Reese on Ravens GM Ozzie Newsome:
"Really, Ozzie is an ambassador for the NFL, period. I think about three 'C's' when I think about Ozzie: classy, consistency and championships. That's what I think about. We're all chasing Ozzie Newsome, man. He doesn't talk about it, but go in his office, he's got skins on the wall. He doesn't have to talk about it. His resume says it all for him."

Former NBC analyst Scott Pioli on the Ravens and their leadership:
"If you're smart and humble, you realize that you have to work harder than you did the year before. I think it takes a great deal of humility throughout the organization, and that's why they have a chance. The leadership group in terms of Steve [Bisciotti], Ozzie [Newsome] and John [Harbaugh], they are all strong men with tremendous humility. They don't think they have it all figured out."

"Ozzie Newsome has headed up personnel for 18 years, the last 12 as GM, and he retains final say over all personnel matters, including the 53-man roster. But this behemoth is built on the strength of more than just one guy. Pat Moriarty, Eric DeCosta, Vince Newsome and George Kokinis were all part of the original Ravens staff with Ozzie in 1996, and Joe Hortiz came aboard in 1998. In few other places does that kind of continuity exist, and the benefit is a tried-and-true system that is inclusive across the board."

Fox Sports analyst Brian Billick on his respect for Ravens general manager & executive vice president Ozzie Newsome:
"When you can look to a leader who's in the Hall of Fame and has two rings that he won with two different coaches and two different quarterbacks, whatever he thinks it takes, you can't question."

QUOTH THE RAVENS

The NFL Network's Mike Mayock on what makes Baltimore one of the best drafting teams in the NFL:
"I think Baltimore, historically, has been one of the best and most consistent drafting teams out there, and it starts with Ozzie Newsome and his philosophy, and it extends to Eric [DeCosta] and his staff. I think they are one of the best staffs that I've seen in this league, and part of the reason is they have been together for so long. That's the first piece. I think there's a lot of talent on the personnel side led by Ozzie."

Senior Bowl exec. director and former Ravens personnel executive Phil Savage on Baltimore's success with undrafted free agents:
"The reason they've been successful is they work at it, and they have a history and a tradition. Really from the moment we got to Baltimore, we put a lot of emphasis on college free agents. I think the Ravens have always approached it like it's the eighth round of the draft, and their scouts take great pride in unearthing a player or two. If you can get one of those players on your team, the impact of it on the salary cap is really significant."

Assistant GM Eric DeCosta on the Ravens' scouting process and signing of undrafted free agents:
"I don't want to compare it to Coke's secret recipe, but we compare it to Coke's secret recipe. We try to treat the process as one of the most competitive things that we do all year. Besides the games [themselves], undrafted free agency is when you're competing against the other 31 teams for a very small amount of players with a very small amount of money. … For us, it's critically important."

JOHN HARBAUGH QUOTES

CB Lardarius Webb on why he admires John Harbaugh:
"If I ever become a coach, I want to be just like him. I want to coach just like him. Sometimes he can be hard on you, but I want to be just like him. He's hard on us, but he's hard on us for good reason. He's always trying to get the best out of me. I love that guy, I do."

CBS analyst Bill Cowher on Ravens head coach John Harbaugh:
"I think it's one of those things again [where] he surrounds himself with good coaches, which is a big part of the success of any organization. He's a good manager of people. He understands the game, and he respects the game. He's a leader. I think he obviously inspires people around him."

DEFENSIVE QUOTES

Steelers QB Ben Roethlisberger on OLB Terrell Suggs:
"I respect him. I respect the way he plays the game. He plays it hard, and he plays it physical, but he also respects the players. If he hits you and hits you hard, he'll love it, but he wants to make sure you're OK because he wants you to keep playing because he wants to keep hitting you. He doesn't have a dirty attitude like some of these young guys coming into the league at linebacker and [other] defensive players have. He has a respect for the players and the game, and I respect that."

Patriots QB Tom Brady on ILB Daryl Smith:
"He looks a lot like Ray Lewis. Ray Lewis is Hall of Fame; he's one of the best players I've ever played against, but Daryl Smith has really stepped in and been a big leader for them. He's right in the middle of the defense. He's a really smart, instinctive player, really good against the pass, fast sideline to sideline. He's got a lot of qualities for a great linebacker. He's made a lot of plays from an interception return for a touchdown, strip-sacks, fumbles and stuff like that. He's really good."

Bengals head coach Marvin Lewis on NT Haloti Ngata:
"He still is so big and strong and just gets up and swats guys and goes. He's another guy, who down the line, will have an opportunity to be considered as a possible Hall of Fame player for his accomplishments since he's been in the league."

QB Joe Flacco on CB Jimmy Smith's progress in 2013:
"He's so much more sure of what he's doing. He's not afraid to be wrong. He's not second-guessing himself [thinking], 'Should I have done this?' or 'Should I have done that?' He's just going out there and playing. I think because of that, his ball skills have improved so much. He's reacting to those things so much better because he's not thinking in his head, 'What happens if I don't make this play?' He has confidence, he's very sure of himself, and a lot of the basic things that his talent allows him to do – he's freed up, and those things are just starting to come out."

OFFENSIVE QUOTES

Former Ravens offensive coordinator Jim Caldwell on QB Joe Flacco and his clutch play-making ability:
"He hasn't been lucky. I think what you see is a real highly-competitive guy that has the ability when things are on the line to get focused. The game doesn't ever get too big for him, and he certainly knows how to move the ball down the field under some very, very difficult circumstances."

Ravens assistant GM Eric DeCosta on QB Joe Flacco:
"The thing about Joe that is great is that he doesn't get flustered. He may have a bad quarter, he may have a bad half, he may have a bad game. But, he's going to come back and play better every single time. You have a bad first half, he comes out and has a great second half. It's happened repeatedly. His personality lends itself to tough situations, critical situations. Players respond to that, and those are the things about Joe that make him special and unique."

Former Giant and new Raven DE Chris Canty comparing QB Joe Flacco and QB Eli Manning:
"They both want to put the dagger in the heart of the other football team. I think Joe is just going to talk to the other football team while he does it. You love to see the confidence exuded from Joe, the command that he has in the huddle. It really energizes other guys."

Rookie WR Marlon Brown on WR Torrey Smith's leadership:
"If you're having a tough day of practice, everyone is hurting and tired, usually I just look over at Torrey, and I just see how he responds. He responds with a good attitude, so I'm going to get out there and respond with a good attitude. If something is going wrong, or if I need help with something, I go to Torrey before I go to anybody. He's our leader."

RB Ray Rice on leading the Ravens:
"A leadership role is something I definitely don't mind taking on now, because I was mentored by one of the greatest leaders probably ever to play the game in Ray Lewis. A lot of his leading was by example, and when he spoke, everybody listened, because they had that respect for him. So, I think being a leader comes with how much respect people have for you. These guys look at the way I work, and they understand that my actions are going to show on the field."

Ravens Ring of Honor inductee Matt Stover on K Justin Tucker:
"He's got good, high character, and that's very important. But more than anything, when you look at what he's able to do, he is just going to learn and continue to learn. He's not one of those guys that thinks he has it all figured it out, and that's the key. You never want someone to be content or to be fine staying status quo. You want someone who wants to get better, and I know he wants to do that."

2013 COMMUNITY RECAP

During the 2013 season, Baltimore Ravens players, coaches, cheerleaders, mascot Poe and staff served the Baltimore community through a variety of outreach events and programs. By partnering with local schools, military groups and non-profits, the Ravens were able to affect the lives of many.

PLAY 60

The Ravens hosted four different Play 60 assemblies at local elementary and middle schools. Several players, including FB Kyle Juszczyk and DT Brandon Williams, encouraged students to take part in 60 minutes of physical activity per day to maintain a healthy lifestyle.

By hosting football clinics, Ravens players were able to interact with and teach children the fundamentals of football. OLB John Simon and teammates took part in the team's first Youth Military Combine with 150 youth from military families.

MILITARY

During training camp, the Ravens hosted wounded warriors as well as service members from several local branches of the military. After practices, the service members had the opportunity to meet players and coaches including OLB Elvis Dumervil.

Ravens players, including QB Tyrod Taylor and ILB Josh Bynes, visited the BWI Thurgood Marshall Airport to welcome service members upon their return to US soil. Players distributed Ravens military t-shirts and autographed team photos.

Throughout the season, the Ravens continued their support for the military. In addition to providing complimentary game tickets to service members, they also sent care packages and skyped with troops overseas.

RAVENS 2013 SEASON REVIEW PRESS CONFERENCE

Owner Steve Bisciotti, President Dick Cass,
General Manager/Executive Vice President Ozzie Newsome & Head Coach John Harbaugh

Opening statement by Steve Bisciotti:
"The room isn't quite as crowded as it was last year. I don't remember this many empty seats. Thanks for coming. I don't have much to say. You're going to hear it all when you ask your questions, and you all ask very good questions. So, we're ready to go if you want to start. Who gets to start?"

You've run many other business, and now with 10 years as the majority owner of the Ravens, when you are faced with a situation that you're not accustomed to and you don't like, are you tempted to go for the quick fix and knee-jerk reaction, or do you consider it a more deliberate and tempered thing? (Joe Platania)
(STEVE BISCIOTTI) "Both. I think your heart wants to react quickly. I think your head, if you are a wise businessman, you take time, and you listen to a lot of people, and you contemplate a lot of different things. But, failure is part of success. We're all very disappointed here, as disappointed, obviously, as our fans are – more so. I'm comfortable with where we are; I'm comfortable where we're headed."

What is your No. 1 priority looking to the offseason? (Gerry Sandusky)
(STEVE BISCIOTTI) "Work on that 30-yard chip shot. I'm horrible at it. (laughter) Supporting these guys. That's it. My role really doesn't change. It's to support my coach and my GM and get this thing moving in the right direction. We had a lot of failures on the football field – offense and defense – and so I know they've got their work cut out for them. So, it's to be a sounding board to them and encourage them to make the kind of decisions that they believe are the right ones for us. And I love that part of the job. Even under duress, I still love that part of the job. I think I've said to you guys in the past, I really love the offseason more than the season itself because of the lack of stress involved in that. I just sit back and start worrying from Thursday on for 17 weeks of the year and pray for good outcomes. So, the offseason is really just an extension of Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays overcoming losses in the regular season. It's just the macro scale here in the offseason."

Ozzie, last year you made some tough decisions about personnel, whether it was Anquan Boldin, Ed Reed or Bernard Pollard. You have some players that are due a lot of money this year. Do you anticipate restructuring contracts, or do you feel you'll have to make more tough decisions this offseason to keep balance? (Brent Harris)
(OZZIE NEWSOME) "I think we'll continue with our theme of not restructuring contracts. But, there's a difference between restructuring and offering guys extensions. We have guys that are in the last year of their contract [or] going into the last year of their contract, and we've had a history of being able to get good deals done with guys heading into that last year. So, I don't think we will embark on doing any more restructuring, but we will probably look at doing some extensions."

What is your assessment of the run game this past year, particularly after having a run game that has been so consistently good over the years and this season falling to last place in the NFL in yards per carry? (Brett Hollander)
(OZZIE NEWSOME) "To say we're disappointed in the run game, no doubt. The history of this franchise has been our ability to run the football. When you run the football, especially in the AFC North with the type of defenses that you face, you have to have the ability to run the football. We think that's a friend to the quarterback when you have that ability, and that's one of the things that we've already started to work on. When I say that, we've had a chance to talk to the guys that were personally involved in the run game, which means the offensive linemen, the tight ends, the quarterbacks, the running backs and also the coaches. Already, we've had the opportunity to talk with those guys, and everybody understands that in 2014, we will do everything we can to be a better run team, because it will make us a better football team."

Steve, you talked about having a lot of failures on the football field, offensively in particular. How concerned are you with what you saw from Joe Flacco this year, or do you think there are other systemic problems that need to be addressed? (Jeff Zrebiec)
(STEVE BISCIOTTI) "That's the hard part. I'm really not a football guy. I watch it like a fan with maybe a little more knowledge than everybody else. And when you look at these guys who have been coaching in the league and have had success in the past, and you look at our players that have had success in the past, if we could have fixed it, we would have. I certainly expected more in the second half of the season. So, as interrelated as the running game is to the play-action pass and the execution of the offensive line, trying to divide up the blame is something I'm really not much more qualified than you guys are to do. But, when you have a short window of failure that comes out of the blue, the key is not to make wholesale changes. I know that Ray Rice was limited this year, and Bernard Pierce was limited. And, if they had been better, then maybe the offensive line would have performed better. Obviously, if the offensive line were blowing open holes, then maybe [Rice and Pierce] could have achieved more with their physical limitations. And, if that had worked a little better, then I think Joe [Flacco] would have performed a little better. All the things, the numbers that are so striking to me to find yourself in the bottom five in offense in almost every category is again something that – had we not had a [good] history in the last five years – then I would probably demand wholesale changes. But, I think you have to be careful to not to look in a vacuum and decide you have to throw out the baby with the bathwater, and [you] let people get healthy, let these guys work together for another year, add some people to the team in the draft and free agency. I think it's safe to say that we're going to look at the offense with the same fine tooth comb that we looked at the defense last year. So, I think you're going to see a lot of changes in personnel and how we approach that. I'm pretty proud of the defense for being able to retool on the fly, and I've got the same amount of confidence with these guys in building the offense."

Given the offensive struggles this season, how much emphasis will there be on getting Joe more help with a receiver or on the offensive line? (Aaron Wilson)
(OZZIE NEWSOME) "John [Harbaugh] has already done a good job of assessing the offense, spending time with his coaches, spending time with Joe [Flacco], some time with Ray [Rice], and there's no doubt in my mind John has a very good understanding of the direction of this offense and of what we need to do. He and I have had several conversations of what we think we need to do to get our offense better – an offense that can not only just perform in crucial times like we did down the stretch, but to be able to play a 60-minute football game. He and I are very much on the same page. Is it going to be bringing in some additional talent? Probably, yes. Is it going to be expecting some of our guys to develop and get better? We will need that, too. And then [it will be] a cohesiveness of direction that's going to be provided by John with his coaching staff as to what we want to be and what we want to look like."

When you look at this team personnel-wise, what do you identify as the top needs in this offseason? (Ryan Mink)
(OZZIE NEWSOME) "We've got to get bigger in the interior of our offensive line. That's one of the areas that I think we need to improve on. I think we need to have a more athletic safety in the defense. We need to be able to get a receiver – whether it's a tight end or a wide receiver – that can make a third-and-7, third-and-8 catch and run after the catch. If I was to look at the three things today, and that's coming out of a full day of personnel meetings and talking with my staff, those are some areas where we can probably add some [and] we will try to add some. But, I also believe in this: You get better by getting yourself better. And, I have no doubt with the work that John and his staff have done in the past, we can have that. The players that we retain on this team will be better players."

You didn't have to use the franchise tag last year, but do you anticipate having to use the franchise tag option for Dennis Pitta or another player to keep them this season? (Garrett Downing)
(OZZIE NEWSOME) "It's a possibility. We'll have the opportunity to go down to the principal's office [Steve Bisciotti's house in Florida] this weekend, and we'll lay everything out there. We'll know exactly what our cap situation is. We'll talk about guys that we want to re-sign, extend, whatever, release, and we will do whatever it takes. And, the possibility of using the franchise tag is something that we might have to do."

Ozzie, can you explain the "principal's office" to the group please? (Kevin Byrne)
(OZZIE NEWSOME) "You get a chance to go to a man's house who just happens to live next to Tiger Woods. (laughter) It's great dialogue. It's something that we started doing four years ago, maybe five years ago. We take two days." (BISCIOTTI: "We invited [assistant general manager] Eric [DeCosta] and [senior VP of football administration] Pat [Moriarty] last year, or two years ago.") Exactly, and what I try to do is I try to bring as much information to the table about the contractual situations, about the makeup of the roster, and we sit down and tear it apart. And we look at all elements of it. We have John [Harbaugh] there providing all the insights from the coaching [team], and then we come away with a plan, and we try to execute that plan."

Steve, you termed the season a failure, but do you weigh that against the fact that Ozzie didn't go into cap hell by restructuring a Super Bowl team? Do you look at it as a team that at least got within one win of getting in [the playoffs]? (Dave Ginsburg)
(STEVE BISCIOTTI) "Yes, exactly. We were tied with Cincinnati in the third quarter, and we knew we needed that win. We came up a half short of being in the playoffs, and I think you saw last year that anybody can play [well once in the postseason]. Anybody can win it; we've seen it in the last few years. I think it's fair to say it's a failure because our goal is to be one of the Top 12. There are bigger failures out there. There are teams that are a whole lot more disappointed. If we found ourselves at 3-13, like the Falcons, then I think that they're sitting there thinking, 'We've got to make a lot of changes.' I really don't think that we do. If 8-8 is a failure, I hope it's a long time before I feel worse than this. That's just the way it goes; it really does open up. We've been this disappointed five of the six times we've sat up here with John [Harbaugh]. It didn't matter. I was more disappointed two years ago after losing to

New England [in the AFC Championship] because it hurts worse. It doesn't mean that our team was worse. Our team obviously wasn't worse, or we wouldn't have gotten there. We're a half away from getting there, and I think we could have beaten Cincinnati like San Diego did. I'd be just as comfortable going into Denver and New England this year because of what happened last year. We're still 10 days away from losing and it still bothers us all, but quality people take that as fuel and make the most of it. I'm getting over it and I'm excited about going forward."

There's been a lot of talk about the offense, but defensively, there were some issues. Particularly, late in games, the defense not getting off the field and also the pass rush weakened as the season went on. What do you attribute those things to and what do you think you can do personnel-wise to correct that? (Clifton Brown)
(OZZIE NEWSOME) "No. 1, not having the ability to get off the field cost us maybe three or four ball games this year. I think we recognized that. To improve on that, I think, No. 1, you have to start with the guys you've got. We've got to get those guys better and put those guys in better position to make plays. On the other side of that, I talked about a free safety [and] maybe getting a free safety that can be a playmaker – when tipped balls are in the air, guys that can come away with that. I think all of those things. And, I think the other thing that we talked about doing this season [is] in order to be successful, you have to have confidence. I think we've got to build a confidence amongst our defensive players that, in those situations, they can make a play and win the game. They don't have to go out there and play tentative or scared. Go make the play; the other 10 guys have got your back. I think we'll be able to get to that because it was a new mixture of guys. It was seven new guys on defense, so they had to get the cohesiveness going. You have to get to the point where you feel like you can make that play and get the defense off the field."

Looking back on the draft class, how would you assess the play of those guys? What can players – like Arthur Brown, Brandon Williams, John Simon, some of the earlier picks – do with you? What are you looking for them to do to carve out bigger roles going into next year? (Matt Zenitz)
(OZZIE NEWSOME) "I'll give a general statement. I guess I'll let John [Harbaugh] be more specific. Having guys grow and improve from the first year to the second year is all about us having a successful football team. A case in point is a DeAngelo Tyson. Sitting here a year ago, we probably did not count on DeAngelo being a guy that would be in our rotation, and he was able to get into that. We had our meeting, and we talked about things that our young guys need to do. As we say, we have an offseason with them. We don't get them until May once you draft them, but now we've got them. We've had a year to find out what their strengths and weaknesses are. That's from my perspective, and I'll let John share from his."

(JOHN HARBAUGH) "That's the main thing. The biggest improvement usually is between the first and second year. That's something that's an old wives' tale in coaching a little bit and football a little bit. Whether it's the first week to the second week, the first game to the second game or the first year to the second year, these guys have been through it now one time. They're going to make major strides. Every one of those guys; you know the guys. Matt Elam should be a really, really good safety in this league. He's fast, he's physical and he's going to understand the expectations a little more. He's going to anticipate checks a little better. He's going to understand what it means to stay deep when you're supposed to stay deep – not to stop your feet when you've got a vertical receiver running up on you and you're a deep-third or deep-half player. Those are things that sometimes you learn from experience the hard way. He didn't make too many mistakes for a guy who played that many repetitions as a safety, so it's a good start for him. Art Brown did a really good job in our nickel packages. Art is a guy who's learning a lot of football. He bounced [between defensive positions] a little bit in college. And football, understanding the complexity of defensive schemes in this league – at this level – is going to take him to a starting role. He's going to compete for a starting job. He'll be competing for that WILL linebacker starting job. I expect him to win the job, but he's got to go win the job. Brandon Williams should be in the rotation at least as a defensive tackle. He proved that he can play. We had a lot of depth there this year. He had a little maturing to do, and he should be in the mix. Kyle [Juszczyk] played great on special teams. [He] was one of our best special teams players – played like a linebacker on special teams. That's a great thing for a fullback/tight end-type guy, but we've got to get him into the mix more. Kyle has got to be a huge part of what he we do going forward. He's transitioned from a two-back to one-back scheme. He's the link, as far as being a move guy, lining up in the backfield and lining up out as a wide receiver. He can do those things. We have high hopes for him. John Simon – nobody practices harder, works harder than John Simon. I think he's just going to make himself into a player. He'll find a way to get on the field, one way or another. He's got some pass rushing talent. We've got two linemen in the fifth and sixth round. You don't know about these guys – developmental guys – between Ryan [Jensen] and Rick [Wagner]. These guys are potential starters in this league. They could be starting for us next year if they earn the job. That's the draft class right there. I don't think I missed anybody."

(JOHN HARBAUGH) "Kapron Lewis-Moore, who practiced for three weeks for us … [He's] got a chance to be a starting five- technique or be in the rotation for sure in that three weeks of practice. Then Aaron Mellette, who showed a lot as a deep ball wide receiver and a red zone threat in preseason, hurt his knee. Aaron is going to be a guy who's going to be in the mix, too."

(KEVIN BYRNE) "Do you want to throw Marlon [Brown] in there?"

(JOHN HARBAUGH) "You guys can throw Marlon in there, right? (laughter) You saw it. Marlon has to improve on some catch radius things and seam routes and nine-ball routes. Here's a guy who's already a red zone threat, played really well in the slot and can play inside or outside. Marlon is going to compete for a starting job, and he's right there already."

Terrell Suggs has a high salary cap number for this year. Is he definitely back for this team next year? Is he definitely back next year at the contract he has right now? (Jamison Hensley)
(OZZIE NEWSOME) "I've had the opportunity to talk to [Terrell] Suggs every day. He kind of makes sure of that. That's a decision that we'll talk about when we get down to Jupiter. Terrell is a really good football player. He not only shows up in the pass game, but he shows up in the run game. That being said, we let a good football player go last year, so we're not afraid. I'm not a virgin when it comes to letting guys walk out the door. What we'll do is we'll look at every aspect of it and see what's best for the 2014, 2015 and 2016 Ravens and then make that decision once we get to it."

Steve, as one of 32 partners in this league, obviously the league is highly successful. TV ratings are through the roof. I'm wondering, from your point of view, what are you concerned about? What are the things about the league that you feel like have to get better, or as an owner, that you have on your mind that you would want to fix? (Mark Viviano)
(STEVE BISCIOTTI) "The one that sticks out to me more than anything are the changes in the safety rules and how much harder we made it on the referees. They already had a tough job, and then you talk about … We've gotten better with the 10 camera angles, and we've gotten better with the HD, and we've got novice fans that can see that a referee is wrong. I think that we can look at revamping … I was talking with [head coach John Harbaugh] and Bill Belichick on the field this second-to-last game. And really, trying to make these refs in a split second understand what is a helmet-to-helmet hit in and of itself is impossible, because you see heads snap back, and other times you realize that it was the shoulder to the shoulder, and they still get a flag. And, sometimes they still get fined. I heard talk of the potential to do it the NHL way, where these reviews are done in New York. I'm all for it. And, I think it takes almost three minutes, even though they're only allowed under the hood for one minute, by the time the ref goes over and talks to the guy, and he throws his flag, and then he walks over, and he's on the headset, and he looks at all the different replays. I think we can expedite that process and make it better. I think it's easier for a nonpartisan guy up in New York to overrule that ref than it is that ref walking over to overrule himself or his teammate, so to speak. So, I'm all for the New York thing. I think it would make it better, I think it would make it more efficient, and I think we could even consider maybe giving these [head coaches] an extra challenge, because if we could expedite that process, cut that down to one-and-a-half minutes and give them one extra [challenge] … I think having to decide whether you want to use a challenge in the first quarter, it's hard for a coach, because he's thinking, 'I think we see it, we might have a chance at it, but I can't afford to give that challenge up.' That, to me – if I was in charge – I would be heading there full-speed ahead, and I really think the league is at least heading in that direction. If I can kick their asses a little bit faster, I certainly will. But, I'm not on the Competition Committee [like Ozzie Newsome is]. (laughter) I really think that we need to make it fairer for the refs – not easier for the refs, but just fairer for the refs – because I think that we can all conclude that we still have the best refs out there. It's still a system that has been evolving. And guys get fired; refs get fired. They don't announce it in USA Today and on SportsCenter that they relieved two referees of their duties because of repeated mistakes, but it happens. And then new guys get a chance, and the new guys are the best out of the Pac-12 and the best guys out of the SEC. So, they care very much to do a great job. Unfortunately for them, I think a great job is being right 80 percent of the time. But, when it costs you a game, it doesn't matter whether they're 95 percent right or 30 percent right. So, I kind of think they get a bad rap. But, I think we can get that better. I think the new rules have made it ridiculously hard on these guys."

Ozzie, ith the draft being later this year, does that change your approach to how you address free agency, and just your thoughts on it being later? (Morgan Adsit)
(OZZIE NEWSOME) "No, not really. It gives us more time to prepare. It will allow our coaches to have more time to get involved in the draft because of the two additional weeks. But, as far as free agency, one of the things that when we decided to move the draft, we wanted to keep free agency as it was – not to impact that – because I think there are so many things that happen during the calendar year for us in the league. Keeping some stability allows us to maintain some type of life. So, it will not change free agency. It will just allow 31 other teams to be better prepared going into the draft, in my estimation."

John, how different is it for you this year? I guess every offseason is a little different. This year, you have to come back after a devastating loss; last year, you had to come back after winning a Super Bowl. How different is it for you, and how did you approach the offseason with your players after not making the playoffs? (Stan White)
(JOHN HARBAUGH) "I'm not sure about the difficulty. It is different, like you're saying. I know one thing: Our players are more motivated than ever. So, it's a different problem than last year, that's for sure. I had a chance to text some guys and talk to some guys over the weekend when games were being played. Our guys weren't real happy about not playing. I like that. I like the fact that they're not pleased with the fact that they were sitting home watching. So, we should come back more highly-motivated than ever. Like Steve [Bisciotti] talked about, we've had probably more gut-wrenching losses in the playoffs than we had this year. But, we were in the playoffs. It's just not acceptable. I don't think any of our guys feel that way, and I like the fact that they're not happy about it."

You mentioned gut-wrenching losses and the frustration of being so close. You almost had one against Pittsburgh here – Mike Tomlin on the field. What was your reaction to that? Was that just gamesmanship, or was that a pure mistake? (Pete Gilbert)
(STEVE BISCIOTTI) "It's not my job to figure out intent. I'm glad we won the game. My feelings for that move might have been a lot different [had we lost]. But, [it was] bizarre, weird, strange, unexplainable, and I think Mike [Tomlin] was embarrassed about it. And I like Mike a lot. He's a really good guy. So, his intent – that is completely in his court. He got fined for it, and again, he's embarrassed as a competitor. Like I said, I'm glad we won."

Steve, do you go to the coaches and to Ozzie and make suggestions or demands when it comes to personnel or staff – like what transpired with Wilbert Montgomery? There has been a lot of talk around town about Juan Castillo's future as well. Is that something that you guys can address? (Jerry Coleman)
(STEVE BISCIOTTI) "I can't address it. Ozzie [Newsome], I think has talked a lot with John [Harbaugh] about the coaches. I really will get into it maybe this weekend more when we're in Florida. But no, I never demand. I do suggest, but right now, I haven't suggested to John to revamp his coaching staff."

(OZZIE NEWSOME) "John relies on me to give him the input on his coaches. He trusts me. He trusts me because I helped hire him, I guess." (laughter)

(STEVE BISCIOTTI) "He doesn't rely on or trust me, so maybe that's why I haven't gotten into it yet." (laughter)

(OZZIE NEWSOME) "Yes, and it's constant, the dialogue that he and I have. He allows me … He wants me to ask questions about his staff because he wants to have the best staff in the National Football League. And John is not afraid to make tough decisions or unpopular decisions if he thinks it's in the best interest of the Baltimore Ravens. So, our relationship about his coaching staff – I don't know if it's matched in the league when it comes to that – and his ability to allow me to be real frank about what I think, and he listens."

Ozzie, even though Dennis Pitta was able to get on the field for the final four games, did you see enough from him to feel comfortable in establishing his free agent value? Or, perhaps when you look at the franchise tag, could that be something that works for both sides as far as him coming back in 2014? (Luke Jones)
(OZZIE NEWSOME) "Well, [to answer] the first part of your question, yes. We saw Dennis [Pitta] for three weeks before we put him on the field, and he still has his skills and the skill set to be a very productive receiver in this league. Going forward, we would like to have Dennis on our football team. He plays winning football for us in a lot of manners. He is a mismatch problem for defenses. And I've seen other teams in the league kind of take that prototype and use it now – having a guy like Dennis on their team and the matchup problems that it presents. So yes, he is someone we will be talking about down in Jupiter, and we'd like to have him. There are no guarantees; [that is] one thing about this business. We wanted [Paul] Kruger and [Dannell] Ellerbe back last year, and we weren't able to keep them."

You guys made an uncharacteristic move with the mid-season trade for Eugene Monroe. Where does that originate from, and did you guys look at possibly exploring anything else during the season? (Kris Jones)
(OZZIE NEWSOME) "We're always open to bettering our team 12 months out of the year. And part of our league [is] that there are relationships that our employees, our associates, have with other teams that are very close. And just in conversation, sometimes you hear things about what other teams are doing, or other teams will actually call you to run things by you. 'What do you think?' And that was a little bit of the situation that happened with Eugene. It ended up being very unique in how it was able to be done. You probably can't imagine the way we put everything through a process, the amount of time we spend on making that decision, and the people that were involved in it for us to get it done. But we did it. We did it because we thought it would help us to win this year, but also give us potential to win going forward, because he is our player right now, and we don't have to go out and get him as a UFA [unrestricted free agent]."

Just to the concept of doing this [press conference] – the ownership, general manager, president, coach standing in front of everyone taking questions … Not every sports team does it, not every league does it, but you do it. The genesis of it and why you think it's important to do this event each year? (Nestor Aparicio)
(STEVE BISCIOTTI) "So I don't have to do any more. (laughter) Honest to God, I almost didn't come last year, and I thought, 'Good, if I don't come the year I win the Super Bowl, then they don't ever [ask].' And so, I woke up last week and thought, 'Oh, I've got to do that press conference,' and I thought, 'But I can't [skip it], because then I'll look like a sore loser after I was sitting up here grinning from ear to ear after the Super Bowl.' I missed my opportunity, so if I win the Super Bowl next time, I'm not coming up, and then I might never do it again. (laughter) So, I have to do it, and …" (Reporter: "Why? Why is it important?") Because I think that we really like each other. We really like what we're doing, and so like I said, five of the six years it's been a week after major disappointment, and I owe it to these guys. And I owe it to the fans, obviously. I think the fans appreciate the fact that maybe I'm a little bit of a loose cannon and think the way they do and ask the same questions that they do and complain the same way. So, I do it because I owe it to the fans. I owe it to you guys [the media] – you're great. You guys are smart and you have a lot of opinions, and so I guess I should come up here and answer your questions, even if they're tough ones."

Even with limited cap space last year, you guys found a way to be active in the free agent market. This year, you guys have limited cap space again, I guess you could say, but how much would you like to be active in free agency, especially since this class seems to be strong in some areas that could potentially help you guys? (Matt Zenitz)
(OZZIE NEWSOME) "We will be active, but let me say something: All of those players that we signed last year were free agents and weren't UFAs [unrestricted free agents]. They were cap causalities of other teams, which allowed us to be able to maintain our compensatory picks for the guys that we lost. So, there is a rhyme and reason in how we acquire players – to continue to maintain our ability to stay strong going forward. And we will do the same [this year], and even if it means we have to go out and get a UFA this time, which means we probably lose a compensatory pick, we won't say, 'No' to anything. We look at everything from an individual standpoint, and then we see what's going to make us better for this year and years going forward. The cap room … You can make the cap as fluid as you want it to be, but again, we're not restructuring contracts. We're not doing that."

You mentioned earlier that the wide receiver position was a potential need. Can you expand on the particular qualities you might be looking for in a receiver, and as it pertains to the draft, what have you learned in the past couple of years from drafting and developing wide receivers? (Matt Vensel)
(OZZIE NEWSOME) "The second part of your question: You can draft a Torrey Smith in the second round, and you can have some success, and you can draft Travis Taylor in the first [round], and you can blow it. The wide receiver position in the draft – there are a lot of hits and misses. And what we've tried to do is identify guys that have certain traits that can come in, and I think we've got a real, real good receivers coach in Jim Hostler who helps develop … But you can't discount that receivers also come in undrafted college free agents, like Marlon [Brown]. [He was] a guy that we had ranked, blew out his knee, and then we were able to get him after some things happened with the Texans. So, we will try to acquire, I think – and I already know this and I won't share it with you – I think we've identified the type of receiver that we want. And when John [Harbaugh] told me, I lit up, because I was right there with him as to what we're looking for in a receiver this year. And I think before the 2014 season ends, we will have that guy on our football team."

Steve mentioned that he knows both Ray Rice and Bernard Pierce were hampered this year. With regards to Ray, how concerned, or not concerned, are you that he can return to being the type of back that he has been most of his career? (Clifton Brown)
(OZZIE NEWSOME) "Ray was one of the players that I sat down with last week. I think Ray is committed to being as good a football player as he has been. We had great dialogue yesterday on what we think we can do to help Ray to get there. But that combination of us having an understanding and a willingness to provide some help to him, and him having a willingness to work his butt off, we will again have a Pro Bowl running back in Ray Rice next year. But I can say that, and in Game 2, [maybe there's] an ACL [injury]. I can't handle that; nobody can [control] that aspect of it." (John Harbaugh: "Knock on wood, Ozzie. (laughter) I want to mitigate that a little bit.")

In the first round of the playoffs, we saw that three of the home sites – for varying reasons – did not sell out until they got an extension. There has been continued conversation about fans enjoying the product more at home than in person. Is that a concern for the Baltimore Ravens or for the league in general? (Mark Viviano)
(STEVE BISCIOTTI) "It's a huge concern, but I think we only had two blackouts in the entire league in the regular season. And I'll be real quick with this: They're talking about expanding the playoffs. It seems to be gaining momentum – adding a seventh team per conference. That would add a game, then the second seed would have to play in the first weekend. Only the first seed would be off. It adds two games. I read [about] the extra time slots and the money that it would be worth. The problem that that would create is that teams like the Packers and teams that are borderline are sending out playoff tickets and making people send in their money early, because you have to, because you have to be prepared. And then you have 15,000 people that come to the game every week and don't sign up, because their team is 6-6, and then they go on to win three of their last four games and they're in, and now you've got to go back within a week and try to get all of those fulfilled. So, it's not really a lack of a demand as much as it is a logistics problem. We've always been able to sell out our playoff games, but we've also always been able to get that money in from our fans if we have a playoff. And when you expand, then it's going to mean that there's going to be six other teams that are still in the running that are going to be asking their fans to send in that money in December to be prepared to have that ticket in hand if you're right back in at the end of the season. So, that's crazy, because I remember years ago being in Florida when Miami got in, and they didn't sell out a playoff game. And I was there watching their last game – or heading into the playoff game – and they were like 10,000 fans short of a sellout for a playoff game, and I just couldn't understand that. But it really came down to the logistics of people come December, and they're 6-6, and they say, 'I'm not paying that $600 for two rounds of playoffs.' And I don't know how you deal with that. But they all sold out, but you only get a week to do it. And we start getting in renewals, right away, and then we're still banging on people's doors in July saying, 'This is your last notice.' We're sending certified letters for people, and they all come back in, they drag their feet, they have personal issues that maybe they can't afford it, but every year we're getting about a 98 to 99 percent renewal rate. So, we're very fortunate here, and we thank the fans for that. Other teams struggle a little bit more; that's their problem."

John, you kind of mentioned last week how we are the conduit for the fans. There has been no greater name since the end of the season than Juan Castillo. Would you be willing to shed some light on what exactly he did this year, how his job was different than Andy Moeller's, and if you will come back next year with the same structure of what most people perceive to be two offensive line coaches – the same structure of him as run game coordinator and Andy Moeller? (Steve Davis)

(JOHN HARBAUGH) "That's a good question, thanks. I can understand why Juan [Castillo] is a lightning rod right now because of the way that was set up and structured. Then, we go into the season, and we have our worst year ever running the ball, and he's got that [run game coordinator] title. So, that's on me. When we hired Juan, and we added Juan and had a chance to add Juan last year, the idea was to add another great coach into our mix. Juan functioned as the lead offensive line coach last year; that was his job. The title was a way to have three great offensive line coaches in our mix right there. Andy [Moeller] had a big contribution last year, was a little bit different than he had the year before. It wasn't the same as he had when he was with John Matsko. So, we had three guys working together, and I thought it was going to be a really good mix. And, I thought those guys did a really good job of coaching together. We didn't get the result we wanted to get. But, Juan was the offensive line coach. And the titles going forward – and that's one of the things that Ozzie and I talked a lot about, and I talked a lot with Juan about this and talked with Andy about this – Juan's title is going to be the 'offensive line coach.' That's the way he worked last year; he worked as an offensive line coach. The offensive line coach works the run schemes and the pass protection schemes. He is pretty much out front and leads on that, but the offensive coordinator is in charge of the offense. He organizes the offense and decides exactly how we're going to do the details of that. Then, I'm on top of that, and I make all the final decisions as far as what direction we go and how we do it. So, it really didn't function any differently last year than it had the year before or the four years before that, and that's the way it worked. Going forward, our plan right now is to improve, is to get better. There are a lot of things that we didn't do well as a coaching staff, and we look at ourselves first. We've got to do a better job of putting our players in a position to make plays – offense, defense and special teams. If we find a way to score another couple touchdowns in the red zone, we're in the playoffs. If we find a way to eliminate a couple turnovers, we're in the playoffs. If we find a way to get a stop in a critical situation at the end of a game – even right to the Cincinnati game – if we do just a little bit more of that, we're in the playoffs. But, that's the fine line of the National Football League. That's what makes the league so great – what we're talking about. That is why it's so exciting and so competitive. But, we've got to find a way as a coaching staff to get the very most out of the players that we have, and that's what I'm working on right now, along with Ozzie and Steve and Dick and our coaching staff. Let's set this thing up as well as we possibly can with our staff, working together, utilizing everybody's strengths, balancing our weaknesses with a lot of great coaches, and building schemes that are going to make us the best we can be next year. And that's what we're going to try to do. So, Juan will be the offensive line coach next year. The rest of it is a little bit in flux right now. We're two weeks earlier to this probably – two, three, four weeks even – than we have been in the past. We've been coaching football games at this point in time. So, as all this NFL coaching drama goes on, some of our guys are involved in that, and we'll just have to see how it shakes out. But, we're going to build a great coaching staff again this year."

Geographically, you have a team 80 miles to the north, and you have a team 40 miles to the south, so you're sort of pinched a little bit from a market standpoint. With the rising costs, are you concerned about tapping the fan base out? Is there any concern two years, five years down the road that this group of fans, you can't keep pushing the expenses off on them? (Drew Forrester)

(STEVE BISCIOTTI) "I don't want to say 'pushing the expenses off on them.' They are buying a good product. And our metro area is growing in population, and we're converting fans by having a good team. So, I certainly would be concerned if we miss the playoffs for six-straight years. I bet you'd see a softness in our demand. But, like I said, I really like working with these guys, and I believe that we're going to continue to produce that kind of product. Dick [Cass] and I have talked a lot about slowing down the tradition of raising the prices every two years, because we know that it gets very expensive. But, so does gas, and it doesn't stop people from driving. I can't worry about them not buying. I can only worry about creating a product that makes them want to buy. So, I see what you're saying, but I'm attacking it from the other way. I'm building pride in our organization, stability in our organization, success, and then I believe that demand will stay up. So, I'm sensitive to it, but there is only one way I can attack it."

(DICK CASS) "Our goal is to build our fan base, and I think we're doing a good job of that. We've got more work to do. We raised ticket prices in 2009 and did not raise them again until 2013. So, we slowed down the rate of ticket price increases. I think we are very much aware of how expensive it is to go to an NFL game, and we're trying to take that into account. The money we generate from our increased ticket sales, we've plowed right back into the stadium to try to make the gameday experience better. We're in the midst of a $35 million capital improvement program at the stadium. So, I think we're aware we have to keep doing that. We're aware we've got to keep the gameday experience a good one in our stadium – not only on the field, but off the field – and we're committed to doing that."

What was the communication, like between [Jim] Caldwell up in the booth to the field and coach [Jim] Hostler and into Joe [Flacco's] ear? What would you change if anything? (Glenn Younes)

(JOHN HARBAUGH) "The communication was good, generally. There weren't too many times where we had a miscue there, other than technical sometimes. There are sometimes when the phone goes out and you've got to signal something in. We had a few timeouts early in games when the phones went out and the clock was running down. I hear about clock management a lot of times from some of you all, and a lot of times that's communication management. (laughter) I'm not pointing any fingers [at media members]. (laughter) That's the reality of the whole thing; that's where your signaling system comes in. But, there are some things we can do schematically. We've talked about our system. What's happening now with the high definition television and all the audio you're getting on your television … All those things that you hear quarterbacks say and coaches say, our opponents hear those things, too. We hear all those things, also. We're studying those things. We've got to find a way to hide what we're doing from our opponents. The more the fans know, the more the opponents know. That's something we're working on, [like] shortening our calls and building a coach system where we can get things called quickly but we can change it up from one play. It's the same play, [but] maybe it's a different direction. Ways that we can hide it from our opponents is a big deal. Communication is a huge thing. Stadiums are loud, and we've got to find a way to talk to each other without having timeouts get called in the second quarter."

You mentioned earlier about the wide receiver. You've identified the type of receiver you want and you're confident that by the end of the 2014 season you'll have him on your team. Are there any obstacles that you can see from having him on your team by the start of the 2014 season? (Gerry Sandusky)

(OZZIE NEWSOME) "No, because I think we've identified the type of player that we're looking for. That player will be available between now [and the start of the season], whether it's in free agency, whether he's a cap casualty, whether it's in the draft or whether it's through trade. No, there is no reason that he might not be here at the beginning of the season, but I always try to leave myself a little leeway to give us a chance to get it right."

(JOHN HARBAUGH) "I'm going to put a little pressure on Ozzie to get that going a little bit before the first game, if possible." (laughter)

GAME 1: BRONCOS 49, RAVENS 27

Baltimore (0-1) · Denver (1-0)

Thursday, September 5, 2013 · 7:13 PM MT · Sports Authority Field at Mile High · Denver
Weather: 83°, Mostly Cloudy, Wind NW 7 mph · Attendance: 76,977 · Time: 3:38

Allowing a team-record points (49) and touchdown passes (7, tying an NFL record), the Ravens dropped the NFL season opener in Denver, 49-27. The start of the game was delayed 34 minutes because of lightning storms in the area. Baltimore led 17-14 at the half after FB Vonta Leach caught a 2-yard touchdown pass from QB Joe Flacco, RB Ray Rice scored on a 1-yard run, and K Justin Tucker hit a 25-yard field goal. But behind QB Peyton Manning, who tied an NFL record with 7 TD passes in the game, Denver exploded for 35 second-half points to secure the victory. In one six-minute span in the third quarter, Manning threw 3 TD passes (28 yards to WR Andre Caldwell and 2 to WR Wes Welker – for 5 and 2 yards). That gave the Broncos a 35-17 lead they extended to 42-17 when Manning hit WR Demaryius Thomas with a 26-yard beauty early in the fourth quarter. Baltimore closed the gap to 42-24 after Flacco hit rookie WR Marlon Brown with a 13-yard scoring strike. Flacco completed 34 of 62 passes for 362 yards with 2 TDs and 2 INTs. Rice and newly-signed TE Dallas Clark caught 8 (35 yards) and 7 (87 yards) passes, respectively. Manning was spectacular in leading an offense that amassed 510 yards, completing 27 of 42 for 462 yards with 7 TDs. Welker caught 9 for 67 yards, while Thomas grabbed 5 for 161 yards and 2 TDs. Baltimore sacked Manning three times, including one by his former teammate in Denver, OLB Elvis Dumervil.

GAME 2: RAVENS 14, BROWNS 6

Baltimore (1-1) · Cleveland (0-2)

Sunday, September 15, 2013 · 1:02 PM ET · M&T Bank Stadium · Baltimore
Weather: 75°, Partly Cloudy, Wind SSW 6 mph · Attendance: 71,098 · Time: 3:10

After being shut out in the first half, the Ravens rebounded from a 6-0 deficit to beat the Browns, 14-6, at M&T Bank Stadium. Baltimore QB Joe Flacco, whose wife, Dana, delivered their second son, Daniel, within two hours of kickoff, kept his focus as he directed the two second-half scoring drives. Cleveland grabbed a 3-0 first-quarter lead on former Raven K Billy Cundiff's 21-yard field goal. Cundiff converted a 51-yard FG with two seconds left in the second quarter to give the Browns a 6-0 halftime advantage. Ravens K Justin Tucker, who missed just 3 FGs a year ago in his rookie season, missed two attempts in the first half, one from 50 yards and the second from 44 yards. On Baltimore's first possession in the third quarter, Flacco led a balanced 12-play, 80-yard drive that ended with RB Bernard Pierce's 5-yard touchdown run. (Flacco completed first-down passes on three third-and-long situations during the drive.) The Ravens' second TD came in the fourth quarter when Flacco hit rookie WR Marlon Brown with a 5-yard TD strike. Baltimore's defense limited Cleveland to 259 yards and did not allow a TD for the first time since it held the Browns to 5 FGs on 11/4/12. The Ravens sacked Browns QB Brandon Weeden 5 times, including 1.5 by ILB Daryl Smith. RB Trent Richardson was limited to 58 yards on 18 carries (3.2 avg.). Flacco completed passes to eight receivers, finishing 22-of-33 for 211 yards. WR Torrey Smith caught a career-high-tying 7 balls for 85 yards. RB Bernard Pierce, who subbed in the fourth quarter for injured RB Ray Rice (hip), gained 57 rushing yards.

GAME 3: RAVENS 30, TEXANS 9

Baltimore (2-1) • Houston (2-1)

Sunday, September 22, 2013 • 1:03 PM ET • M&T Bank Stadium • Baltimore

Weather: 73°, Sunny, Wind NNW 9 mph • Attendance: 71,168 • Time: 3:09

Playing without starters RB Ray Rice, WR/RS Jacoby Jones and DE Chris Canty, the Ravens overwhelmed previously-unbeaten Houston, 30-9, at M&T Bank Stadium. Holding the ball 13 of the first 16 minutes of the game, the Texans took a 6-0 early second-quarter lead on 2 K Randy Bullock field goals (27 and 29 yards). K Justin Tucker's 28-yard FG made the score 6-3 with 4:11 remaining in the first half. Baltimore ILB Daryl Smith then stole a QB Matt Schaub pass and raced 37 yards to the end zone to give the Ravens a 10-6 advantage. Less than two minutes later, WR/RS Tandon Doss returned a Texans' punt 82 yards for a TD, making the score 17-6. Another Bullock FG (29 yards) produced a 17-9 halftime score. Baltimore increased its advantage on the opening drive of the third quarter, producing a 9-play, 80-yard drive that finished with RB Bernard Pierce's 1-yard TD dash. WR Torrey Smith produced 2 of the first downs on that series with catches of 48 and 24 yards. Tucker added 2 fourth-quarter FGs (45 and 43 yards) to make the final margin. This marked the second-consecutive game that the Ravens' defense did not allow a TD. Houston produced just 264 yards behind Schaub, who was sacked 3 times, completing 25 of 35 passes for 194 yards (72.8 rating). Rookie WR DeAndre Hopkins caught 6 of those for 60 yards. Meanwhile, QB Joe Flacco threw 24 times with 16 completions for 171 yards (87.3 rating), with Smith catching 5 for 92 yards. TE Dallas Clark added 4 receptions for 46 more, and Pierce rushed 24 times for 65 yards.

GAME 4: BILLS 23, RAVENS 20

Baltimore (2-2) · Buffalo (2-2)

Sunday, September 29, 2013 · 1:02 PM ET · Ralph Wilson Stadium · Orchard Park, NY
Weather: 67°, Partly Cloudy, Wind SSW 15 mph · Attendance: 68,296 · Time: 3:34

QB Joe Flacco threw a career-high and Ravens-record 5 INTs, 2 off of Baltimore receivers' hands, when the Ravens lost to the Bills, 23-20. The Ravens' defense allowed 203 rushing yards, the most since giving up a franchise-high 227 against Dallas (10/14/12). Despite this, Baltimore had the ball at the 50-yard line on third-and-8 with 1:04 left in the game, trailing by 3 points. Flacco then threw his 5th pick of the day when the ball bounced off TE Dallas Clark's hands and was snagged by rookie ILB Kiko Alonso. It was Alonso's second of the day. CB Aaron Williams also had 2 INTs, both setting up Dan Carpenter field goals (27 and 22 yards) – one in the first quarter and the second in the third. Twice in the fourth quarter the Ravens penetrated Buffalo's 20, the first of these to the 17 and the second time to the 6-yard line. Both times Baltimore had to settle for Justin Tucker FGs (35 and 24 yards). The Bills led 6-0 after the first quarter on 2 Carpenter FGs. Baltimore then took a 7-6 advantage when Flacco hit rookie WR Marlon Brown with a 10-yard scoring strike. Buffalo quickly bounced back, scoring 2 TDs before halftime. Rookie QB EJ Manuel threw a 42-yard TD bullet to fellow first-year man WR Robert Woods for 1 tally. RB Fred Jackson then raced 16 yards for another TD after S Jim Leonhard stole a Flacco pass on the Ravens' 28-yard line. The Ravens closed the gap to 20-14 in the third quarter when Flacco hit WR Torrey Smith with a 26-yard TD toss. Smith finished with 5 catches for 166 yards. Flacco, who was sacked 4 times, was 25-of-50 for 347 yards. In the second half, the Ravens threw 28 passes and ran just twice. The Ravens were 3-of-16 on third-down conversions. LB Daryl Smith and CB Corey Graham each had INTs for Baltimore. Buffalo RBs Jackson and C.J. Spiller ran for 87 and 77 yards, respectively.

GAME 5: RAVENS 26, DOLPHINS 23

Baltimore (3-2) • Miami (3-2)

Sunday, October 6, 2013 • 1:02 PM ET • Sun Life Stadium • Miami Gardens, FL
Weather: 87°, Sunny, Wind SE 5 mph • Attendance: 68,342 • Time: 3:16

K Justin Tucker kicked his game-winning fourth field goal (44 yards) of the day with 1:42 remaining in the fourth quarter to help the Ravens earn a hard-fought 26-23 victory at Miami. Trailing 13-6 at the half, the Ravens dominated the third quarter, holding the ball for over 11 minutes to take a 16-13 lead. The Ravens opened the second half with a 6-play, 80-yard drive that ended with a 2-yard RB Ray Rice TD run. After forcing a Dolphins' punt, Baltimore came back with an 11-play series that ended with a 25-yard Tucker field goal. After a Miami three-and-out, the Ravens produced an even better drive – 11 plays for 94 yards – that ended with a Rice 3-yard TD scamper to give Baltimore a 23-13 lead at the start of the final period. Miami, however, responded immediately with 10 points in 1 minute and 45 seconds to tie the game at 23. (The Dolphins scored when S Reshad Jones returned a QB Joe Flacco INT for a 25-yard TD, which followed a 48-yard K Caleb Sturgis FG.) Sturgis missed a 57-yard FG attempt at the end of the game that would have sent the contest into overtime. Tucker (42 and 50 yards) and Sturgis (37 and 25 yards) exchanged a pair of field goals in the first two quarters before Miami QB Ryan Tannehill hit TE Charles Clay with a 9-yard TD pass with 46 seconds left in the second quarter. Baltimore's defense limited the Dolphins to 22 rushing yards (fourth fewest in Ravens history) and sacked Tannehill 6 times, including 3 by OLB Terrell Suggs in the fourth quarter. OLBs Elvis Dumervil, Courtney Upshaw and Pernell McPhee also produced QB takedowns. Flacco was 19-of-32 for 269 yards, including 6 passes for 121 yards to WR Torrey Smith. Rice rushed 27 times for 74 yards and added 6 catches for 28 more.

A Ravens' comeback came up short when the Packers stopped Baltimore, 19-17. After Green Bay took a 6-0 halftime lead that was increased to 9-0 in the third quarter on 3 K Mason Crosby field goals (45, 31 and 50 yards), the Ravens finally got on the board with K Justin Tucker's 23-yard FG. QB Aaron Rodgers, who made key third-down completions several times, found WR Jordy Nelson with a 64-yard scoring strike to give the Packers a 16-3, third-quarter lead. Baltimore battled back when QB Joe Flacco found WR Jacoby Jones in the back of the end zone with an 11-yard TD throw that made it 16-10 early in the fourth quarter. Another Crosby FG (31 yards) gave the Packers a 19-10 advantage with just 4:17 left in the contest. On the Ravens' next possession, faced with a fourth-and-21 on their own 19, Flacco hit WR Tandon Doss for 63 yards and a first down. The Ravens' QB then found TE Dallas Clark, who made a spectacular one-handed catch, in the end zone on the following play to get Baltimore within 2 (19-17) with 2:04 remaining. On a third-and-3 on the Packers' next series, Rodgers hit TE Jermichael Finley with a 52-yard completion to keep the ball. The Packers' ability to sustain drives in the second half was a key to the Green Bay victory. The Ravens had a chance to take a 7-3 lead in the second quarter, but failed on a fourth-and-goal at the Packers' 1 when RB Bernard Pierce was stopped for no gain. With 12 seconds left in the first half, Flacco was stripped of the ball, and DE Datone Jones ran 20 yards to the Ravens' 13, where Crosby hit a 31-yard FG. While Green Bay's RB Eddie Lacy rushed 23 times for 120 yards, the Ravens managed just 47 yards on 22 carries. However, Flacco was impressive, completing 20 of 34 for 342 yards and 2 TD throws and 0 INTS (112.6 rating).

GAME 7: STEELERS 19, RAVENS 16

Baltimore (3-4) • Pittsburgh (2-4)

Sunday, October 20, 2013 • 4:25 PM ET • Heinz Field • Pittsburgh

Weather: 57°, Partly Cloudy, Wind SW 14 mph • Attendance: 62,295 • Time: 2:48

For the ninth time in the last 11 games – and for the sixth-consecutive time at Heinz Field – the Ravens and Steelers played a game decided by 3 points, with host Pittsburgh winning, 19-16. K Shaun Suisham drilled the 42-yard difference-maker as time expired in the fourth quarter. The Ravens trailed throughout the game until QB Joe Flacco directed a 16-play, 73-yard touchdown drive that tied the contest at 16-16 with 1:58 left in the heated battle. The tying score came on a 1-yard Flacco-to-TE Dallas Clark dart. Steelers WR/RS Emmanuel Sanders returned the ensuing kickoff to the Pittsburgh 37 to start the winning drive. Seven plays later, Suisham kicked his fourth field goal of the game. The Steelers took a 7-0 early lead when QB Ben Roethlisberger threw a shovel pass to TE Heath Miller for a 3-yard TD. Baltimore K Justin Tucker made it 7-3 after one quarter with a 46-yard FG. Suisham and Tucker traded FGs in the second quarter, giving the Steelers a 10-6 advantage at the half. The two kickers exchanged FGs another time in the second half to make the score 16-9 before the Ravens' lone TD was scored late in the final stanza. The loss was Baltimore's third in the last four games and gave the Ravens a 3-4 mark heading into their bye. (These losses were by 3, 2 and 3 points.) While the Ravens out-gained the Steelers by 1 yard (287-286), Pittsburgh was able to rush for 141 yards with rookie RB Le'Veon Bell gaining 93 of those on 19 carries. Flacco finished the game with 24 completions in 34 attempts for 215 yards, while Roethlisberger was 17-of-23 for 160. RB Ray Rice led the Ravens with 45 rushing yards and 4 catches for 27 more. It was the fifth game this season when the Ravens' defense allowed just one TD or none.

GAME 8: BROWNS 24, RAVENS 18

Baltimore (3-5) · Cleveland (4-5)

Sunday, November 3, 2013 · 4:25 PM ET · FirstEnergy Stadium · Cleveland

Weather: 46°, Sunny, Wind NNE 9 mph · Attendance: 71,513 · Time: 3:16

After beating the Browns 11 consecutive times, Baltimore dropped a 24-18 decision in Cleveland last Sunday. (The Ravens had not lost to the Browns since the trio of John Harbaugh, QB Joe Flacco and RB Ray Rice joined the team in 2008.) A bold pair of fourth-down conversions were key to the Browns' victory. The first came in the first quarter when Cleveland faced a fourth-and-1 at the Baltimore 1-yard line. Instead of attempting a short field goal, Browns' QB Jason Campbell threw a TD bullet to WR Davone Bess for a 7-0 lead. With the game on the line and nursing a 21-18 advantage at the Ravens' 43 with 3:12 left in the contest, Cleveland faced another fourth-and-1. Campbell once again found a diving Bess for 3 yards to keep the drive alive. That first down was part of a game-clinching, 67-yard, 15-play series that ended with a K Billy Cundiff 22-yard field goal. This marked the third-consecutive game (GB and at Pit.) that the Ravens' defense was unable to give the ball back to the offense with the game hanging in the balance. Campbell, the Browns' third starting QB of the season, was solid, throwing 3 TDs while completing 23 of 35 passes for 262 yards. Flacco was harassed throughout the contest – he was sacked 5 times – but he completed 24 of 41 for 250 yards with 2 TDs and 1 INT. Both of Flacco's TD tosses went to rookie WR Marlon Brown, who also added a 2-point conversion. After Bess' first TD of the game, Justin Tucker nailed a 51-yard FG to make the score 7-3 after one. Bess then caught a 20-yard TD throw to give Cleveland a 14-3, second-quarter lead. The Ravens rallied with nine seconds left in the period when Flacco threw a 19-yard scoring strike to Brown to make the score 14-10 at the half. Campbell's 4-yard TD throw to TE Gary Barnidge increased the Browns' advantage to 21-10 after three quarters. That score was set up when WR/RS Tandon Doss muffed a punt at the Ravens' 11-yard line that was recovered by Browns LB Eric Martin. A 7-yard TD pass from Flacco to Brown, plus a 2-point conversion by the same pair, brought Baltimore to within three at 21-18 with 12 minutes left in the game.

GAME 9: RAVENS 20, BENGALS 17 (OT)

Baltimore (4-5) • Cincinnati (6-4)

Sunday, November 10, 2013 • 1:02 PM ET • M&T Bank Stadium • Baltimore
Weather: 60°, Sunny, Wind W 17 mph • Attendance: 70,992 • Time: 3:41

In a thrilling overtime game at gusty M&T Bank Stadium, the Ravens beat the first-place Bengals, 20-17, on a 46-yard Justin Tucker field goal. Cincinnati tied the game at 17 on the final play of the fourth quarter when QB Andy Dalton's "Hail Mary" was tipped and caught by A.J. Green for a 51-yard touchdown. The ball bumped off the hand of S James Ihedigbo, who had 2 INTs (the first steals of his career). One of the main stories in this wild game were a pair of fourth-down stops by the Ravens' defense. On the Bengals' first possession of the game, they were stopped on a fourth-and-1 at the Ravens' 47. On the next play, QB Joe Flacco attempted a long pass to WR Jacoby Jones, who collided with S Reggie Nelson. Nelson was called for interference on the Cincinnati 5-yard line. Three plays later, Flacco found TE Dallas Clark at the back of the end zone for a 1-yard TD and a 7-0 Ravens' lead. Baltimore extended the advantage to 10-0 in the first quarter with a 36-yard Tucker FG. Flacco's 7-yard TD dart to WR Torrey Smith gave the Ravens a 17-0 halftime lead. Cincy produced more penalty yards (114) than total offense (102 yards) in the first half. Dalton, who finished the game with 24 completions on 51 attempts for 274 yards and 3 INTs, was just 8-of-21 for 47 yards (1 INT) in the first two quarters. Bengals K Mike Nugent provided the only points in the third quarter when he hit a 32-yard FG to make the score 17-3 entering the fourth period. RB Giovani Bernard's 18-yard catch and run got the Bengals to within 7 at 17-10 with 8:22 left in regulation. Baltimore's second fourth-down stop came on the first series of OT. The Bengals drove to the Ravens' 33-yard line and faced a fourth-and-2. Rather than attempt a 51-yard-FG against the wind, Dalton threw a short pass to Bernard, who was tackled for an 11-yard loss. Baltimore then produced 2 first downs to set up Tucker's game-winner. The Ravens sacked Dalton 5 times, 3 by OLB Elvis Dumervil. Bengals LB Vincent Rey produced 3 sacks and had an INT. Green caught 8 passes for 151 yards, including 4 for 98 in the fourth quarter and OT.

GAME 10: BEARS 23, RAVENS 20 (OT)

Baltimore (4-6) · Chicago (6-4)

Sunday, November 17, 2013 · 12:02 PM CT · Soldier Field · Chicago
Weather: 68°, Cloudy, Wind S 17 mph · Attendance: 62,367 · Time: 5:16

For the fourth time in six losses this season, the Ravens dropped a contest that was decided on the final series of the game. This time it was in Chicago, where the Bears handed Baltimore a 23-20 defeat in overtime. The Ravens tied the game in regulation at 20-20 when K Justin Tucker converted a 21-yard FG. Bears K Robbie Gould then won the battle with a 38-yard FG at the 8:41 mark of the extra period. The game was played in dramatic weather conditions that caused a nearly two-hour delay after just 10 minutes of the first quarter had been played. Powerful rain storms featuring wind gusts over 60 miles per hour and a tornado warning forced stadium officials to empty the seating bowl. At the time, the Ravens had built a 10-0 early lead by scoring on their first two possessions. On their first drive, which featured a 47-yard RB Ray Rice run, the Ravens grabbed a 7-0 advantage on a 1-yard Rice dash. Tucker then impressively drilled a 52-yard FG through the swirling winds before the game was delayed. At the 8:50 mark of the second quarter, Gould converted a 20-yard FG to make the score 10-3. On the next play from scrimmage, Chicago DE David Bass leaped high to steal a QB Joe Flacco pass and raced 24 yards to the end zone to tie the game at 10. The Ravens bounced right back with a 9-play, 80-yard scoring drive that ended with a 5-yard Flacco-to-WR Torrey Smith TD. Another Gould FG (46 yards) at the end of the second quarter had the Ravens leading 17-13 at the half. After a scoreless third, Chicago took a 20-17 lead with 10:33 left in regulation when RB Matt Forte scored a 14-yard TD on a pass from QB Josh McCown. Tucker's tying FG came with three seconds left in the fourth quarter. With the winds howling, passing was difficult with Flacco completing 17 of 31 for 162 yards and McCown also attempting 31, completing 19 for 216 yards. McCown was impressive in the OT, finding WR Alshon Jeffery and TE Martellus Bennett for 14 and 43 yards, respectively. Jeffery caught 7 passes for 83 yards. Rice rushed for a game-high 131 yards on 25 carries, his best outing thus far.

GAME 11: RAVENS 19, JETS 3

Baltimore (5-6) · New York (5-6)

Sunday, November 24, 2013 · 1:02 PM ET · M&T Bank Stadium · Baltimore

Weather: 33°, Partly Cloudy, Windy, Wind NW 26 mph · Attendance: 71,148 · Time: 2:54

On a cold and windy day with gusts over 30 miles per hour, the Ravens found a way to beat the Jets, 19-3, at M&T Bank Stadium. K Justin Tucker converted all 4 of his field goal attempts, including blasting a 53-yarder through the swirling winds in the third quarter. The Ravens' defense was outstanding, getting 3 take-aways, including a pair of interceptions by CB Corey Graham off Jets rookie QB Geno Smith. OLB Terrell Suggs added a fumble recovery on a botched snap. The Jets were limited to just one third-down conversion in 12 attempts while being held to 118 passing yards (220 total net yards). Twenty-nine of New York's passing yards came on the game's last series in the final minute of play. It marked the seventh time this season when the Ravens' defense allowed one or no touchdowns. New York's lone scoring drive came on its second possession of the game when K Nick Folk completed a nine-play, 55-yard series with a 27-yard FG. Tucker then hit 3-consecutive FGs before the end of the second quarter to give Baltimore a 9-3 halftime lead. Tucker's 53-yarder made it 12-3 in the third period, which ended with QB Joe Flacco's throw that cut through the wind and landed into WR Jacoby Jones' hands for a 66-yard touchdown. Flacco completed 17 of 26 passes for 273 yards with 1 TD and 1 INT for a 97.1 QB rating. Jones caught 4 passes for 103 yards, adding 108 more yards on five punt returns and 38 more on two KORs. TE Ed Dickson and TE Dallas Clark each caught 3 balls for 55 and 24 yards, respectively. The Jets' Smith was limited to nine completions on 22 attempts for only 127 yards. The Ravens improved to 8-1 all time against the New York Jets, producing their eighth-consecutive win (a streak that dates back to 1998). Baltimore is now 5-0 vs. the Jets in games played in Baltimore.

GAME 12: RAVENS 22, STEELERS 20

Baltimore (6-6) • Pittsburgh (5-7)

Thursday, November 28, 2013 • 8:30 PM ET • M&T Bank Stadium • Baltimore
Weather: 37°, Clear, Wind WSW 2 mph • Attendance: 71,005 • Time: 3:07

In what has become typical of contests between the Ravens and Steelers, this one came down to the final plays of the game. Baltimore won, 22-20, on Thanksgiving night at M&T Bank Stadium when its defense stopped Pittsburgh's attempt to tie the game on a 2-point conversion with 1:06 left in regulation. The Steelers earned the chance to tie the game when QB Ben Roethlisberger hit WR Jerricho Cotchery with a 1-yard TD throw. Big Ben then threw to WR Emmanuel Sanders for the tying conversion, but CB Chykie Brown broke up the play. The Ravens moved the ball well throughout the game, but scored just 1 TD while K Justin Tucker hit a career-high 5 FGs, including 3 over 40 yards. (Baltimore punted just once in the contest.) The Ravens' defense shut out the Steelers in the first half, taking a 10-0 lead into the intermission. On Baltimore's first possession of the game, QB Joe Flacco led an eight-play, 71-yard TD drive that ended when Flacco hit WR Torrey Smith with a 7-yard scoring strike. The key play of the drive came on a 54-yard, Flacco-to-Smith connection. Tucker then hit a 43-yard FG in the second quarter and made the score 13-0 in the third quarter with a 34-yard FG before the Steelers got on the scoreboard with a Roethlisberger 8-yard TD toss to Sanders. The Ravens responded with back-to-back FG drives with Tucker hitting from 38 and 45 yards to give the Ravens a 19-7 lead early in the fourth quarter. The Steelers came right back with a 10-play series that ended with RB LeVeon Bell's 1-yard TD plunge to make the score 19-14. Tucker responded once again, this time from 48 yards, to make the margin 8 at 22-14. With the Steelers' final TD making it a 2-point Ravens' win, it marked the 10th time in the last 12 games played between these rivals that the contest was decided by 3 points or less. (That includes nine of the last 10 and five straight.) There were no turnovers in the game.

GAME 13: RAVENS 29, VIKINGS 26

Baltimore (7-6) • Minnesota (3-9-1)

Sunday, December 8, 2013 • 1:03 PM ET • M&T Bank Stadium • Baltimore

Weather: 33°, Snow, Wind NE 7 mph • Attendance: 70,921 • Time: 3:24

In a remarkable game that set NFL records for the most points scored (36) in the last 2:05 of a game and most lead changes (6) in a fourth quarter, the Ravens found a way to beat the Vikings, 29-26. In 121 seconds late in the contest, 36 points were scored, including the winning touchdown by Baltimore with 4 seconds left in the game. That score came when Joe Flacco, who led the game-winning, 5-play, 80-yard drive, hit rookie WR Marlon Brown with a 9-yard TD strike in the back of the end zone. This wild battle started with a first-half, near-blizzard snowfall that made it difficult for QBs to find receivers beyond the line of scrimmage. By the end of the game, it was raining ice pellets. Throughout the contest, plows and workers with shovels attempted to clear snow from the field. Baltimore took a 7-0, first-quarter lead when Flacco hit TE Ed Dickson with a 1-yard TD dart. A pair of Vikings K Blair Walsh field goals in the second (39 yards) and third (40 yards) quarters made the score 7-6 entering the final period. A Matt Cassel 8-yard scoring strike to WR Jerome Simpson gave the Vikings a 12-7 advantage early in the fourth. When Flacco threw a 1-yard TD dart to TE Dennis Pitta, who was playing for the first time in 2013, with 2:05 left in the game, the Ravens owned a 15-12 advantage. (Flacco found WR Torrey Smith for the 2-point conversion.) That was just the start of one of the wildest 121 seconds in NFL history. Minnesota came right back with a 2-play, 68-yard series that ended with RB Toby Gerhart's 41-yard TD run to give the Vikes a 19-15 lead with 1:27 showing on the clock. Not to be outdone, WR/RS Jacoby Jones returned the ensuing kickoff 77 yards for a TD and a 22-19 Ravens' lead. The Vikings bounced right back and scored on a 79-yard Cassel-to-WR Cordarrelle Patterson screen pass that stunned the Ravens and the home crowd. Trailing 26-22 with 45 seconds remaining, Flacco led the game-winning TD drive that ended with 4 seconds left in this wild confrontation. Flacco completed 28 of 50 passes for 245 yards with 3 TDs and 3 INTs in the difficult conditions. Brown caught 7 for 92 (both career highs), while RB Ray Rice rushed for 67 yards on 17 carries and added 5 catches for 42 more. Patterson was impressive with 5 receptions for 141 yards. Gerhart ran for 89 yards on 15 rushes, after starting RB Adrian Peterson left the game with a foot injury.

GAME 14: RAVENS 18, LIONS 16

Baltimore (8-6) · Detroit (7-7)

Monday, December 16, 2013 · 8:40 PM ET · Ford Field · Detroit
Weather: Indoors · Attendance: 64,742 · Time: 2:59

K Justin Tucker's team-record 61-yard field goal with 38 seconds left in the game gave the Ravens a hard-fought 18-16 victory over the host Lions at Ford Field on ESPN'sMonday Night Football. Tucker's game-winner was his sixth FG of the game, accounting for all of Baltimore's points. (The 6 FGs are also a team record.) The game didn't start well for the Ravens, as the Lions opened with an 8-play, 78-yard drive that ended with a RB Reggie Bush 14-yard touchdown run for a 7-0 Detroit lead. It then became Tucker time, starting with 3 second-quarter FGs (29, 24, 32 yards) for a 9-7 Ravens' halftime lead. Tucker and Detroit K David Akers then exchanged FGs – Tucker from 49 yards and Akers from 40 – in the third quarter to give the Ravens a 12-10 advantage. The Baltimore kicker blasted a 53-yarder to make the score 15-10 midway through the final period. But, the Lions roared back to take a 16-15 lead with 2:21 left in the game. The score came on a QB Matthew Stafford 14-yard TD strike to TE Joseph Fauria. However, the attempt for the 2-point conversion failed. A key play in the Ravens' field-goal-winning drive was a QB Joe Flacco-to-WR Jacoby Jones 27-yard completion on a third-and 15. That put the ball on Detroit's 45-yard line. The line of scrimmage for the winning FG was the 43. The Ravens intercepted Stafford three times (DE DeAngelo Tyson, ILB Daryl Smith and S Matt Elam), while not turning the ball over. Flacco completed 20 of 38 for 222 yards, including 6 to Jones for 80 yards and 4 each to WR Torrey Smith (69 yards) and WR Marlon Brown (31). WR Calvin Johnson caught 6 for 98 for the Lions; Bush added 86 rushing yards on 17 carries. The victory was the Ravens' fourth in a row and fifth in the last six games.

GAME 15: PATRIOTS 41, RAVENS 7

Baltimore (8-7) · New England (11-4)

Sunday, December 22, 2013 · 4:25 PM ET · M&T Bank Stadium · Baltimore

Weather: 65°, Cloudy, Wind SSW 8 mph · Attendance: 71,433 · Time: 3:34

The Ravens lost the ability to control their playoff destiny when they dropped a 41-7 decision to the Patriots at M&T Bank Stadium last Sunday. The game started badly for Baltimore and finished even worse when New England scored 21 points in the final 2:05 of the contest. A pass interference (CB Jimmy Smith) call in the end zone on the Pats' second possession of the game gave New England a first down on the Ravens' 1-yard line. RB LeGarrette Blount scored on a burst up the middle on the next play for a 7-0 NE lead. A QB Joe Flacco interception on the Baltimore 32 by CB Logan Ryan on the next series set up the Patriots' second score. That came when QB Tom Brady hit RB Shane Vereen with a 4-yard touchdown pass that helped the Pats to a 14-0 first-quarter lead. A K Stephen Gostkowski 45-yard field goal on the first play of the second quarter gave the Patriots a 17-0 advantage that they held through the remainder of the first half. A Gostkowski 42-yard FG made the score 20-0 entering the fourth quarter. The Ravens finally got on the board with 9:21 left in the game when Flacco plunged one yard for a TD to make the score 20-7. After holding the Patriots to a three-and-out, the Ravens had a fourth-and-10 from their 48 with 6:46 remaining. But, a pass from Flacco to TE Dennis Pitta landed incomplete. Nine Patriots' runs later, plus a personal foul on CB Lardarius Webb, Blount scored his second TD of the day – a 7-yard run. On the Ravens' next play, a bad snap to backup QB Tyrod Taylor was scooped up by NE DE Chandler Jones in the end zone for another TD to give the Pats a 34-7 lead. The Patriots weren't finished as CB Tavon Wilson intercepted Taylor and raced 74 yards for a TD, making the final margin, 41-7. Brady completed 14 of 26 for 172 yards, while Flacco was 22-of-38 for 260 yards with 2 INTs. Three Ravens caught four passes: WR Marlon Brown (51 yards), TE Ed Dickson (44) and Pitta (34). Blount led NE with 76 rush yards, and WR Julian Edelman caught seven from Brady. K Justin Tucker's streak of 33-straight field goals was snapped when he missed a 37-yarder wide left early in the fourth quarter.

GAME 16: BENGALS 34, RAVENS 17

Baltimore (8-8) · Cincinnati (11-5)

Sunday, December 29, 2013 • 1:02 PM ET • Paul Brown Stadium • Cincinnati
Weather: 43°, Cloudy, Wind S 3 mph • Attendance: 62,406 • Time: 3:06

The Ravens missed the postseason, snapping their NFL-best streak of five-consecutive playoff appearances after a 34-17 defeat at Cincinnati in the season finale. It was the first time that Baltimore failed to make the postseason under head coach John Harbaugh (2008-13). The Ravens forced Cincinnati into four turnovers, but were only able to turn them into nine points. Baltimore tied the game at 17 with 5:13 to go in the third quarter, but the AFC North champion Bengals put the game away in the fourth with 17 unanswered points. On the Bengals' first play from scrimmage, CB Corey Graham intercepted a QB Andy Dalton pass intended for WR Marvin Jones, returning it 28 yards. The INT, which led to a K Justin Tucker 38-yard field goal, was the first of four for Dalton in the game. After another Dalton INT, this one by S James Ihedigbo, Tucker hit his second field goal – a 22-yarder – making the score 6-0. Just before the end of the first quarter, Dalton hit WR A.J. Green on a 53-yard touchdown pass, giving the Bengals a 7-6 lead. A K Mike Nugent 39-yard field goal and a 16-yard Dalton-to-Jones touchdown in the second quarter gave Cincy a 17-6 lead at halftime. Early in the third, CB Lardarius Webb stole another Dalton pass, but the Ravens' drive stalled, and Baltimore had to settle for another Tucker FG (34 yards). On their next possession, QB Joe Flacco connected with rookie WR Marlon Brown on an 8-yard toss in the back of the end zone, and then RB Ray Rice ran in for the two-point conversion, tying the game at 17. Cincinnati scored 17 fourth-quarter points, following two Flacco INTs in the quarter, including one with 4:07 remaining in the game to CB Dre Kirkpatrick, who raced 21 yards to the end zone, giving the Bengals the 34-17 victory.

RAVENS RANTS: ELVIS DUMERVIL

SACKS OF "DOOM"

In 2013, the Ravens signed free agent OLB Elvis Dumervil, who spent his first seven seasons with Denver. Though he missed the entire 2010 campaign with a pectoral injury, Dumervil has totaled 295 tackles (210 solo), 73 sacks, 19 FFs, 9 FRs, 1 INT and 14 passes defensed during his career. In Baltimore's 2013 Week 10 win over Cincinnati, Dumervil led the Ravens with a season-high 3 sacks. He had 9.5 QB drops in 2013, ranking as the Ravens' second most (OLB Terrell Suggs, 10). Since entering the NFL in 2006, Dumervil's 73 sacks rank ninth most among active players. His 17 quarterback drops during the 2009 campaign ranked first in the NFL that season.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS:

- Flacco's 62 regular season victories are the most by a QB in the first six seasons of a career
- Flacco's 71 wins (including playoffs) are the most by an NFL starting QB since 2008, when he entered the league
- Is the only starting QB in NFL history (since the 1970 merger) to win a playoff game in each of his first five seasons (2008-12)
- Is tied with Tom Brady for the most playoff victories (9) in a QB's first five seasons (2008-12)
- Became the second QB in NFL postseason history (Joe Montana - 1989) to throw 11 TDs and 0 INTs in 2012
- Is the Ravens' all-time leading passer in yards (21,545), TD passes (121), completions (1,869) and attempts (3,103) and is second in completion percentage (60.2)
- His 109 NFL starts (including playoffs) are the most to begin a career by a QB in NFL history...Flacco has produced 71 wins in those contests
- Became the first rookie QB in NFL history to win two playoff games in the 2008 Divisional Playoff win at Ten. (1/10/09)
- The tandem of John Harbaugh and Flacco, which in 2008 set the NFL record for most wins ever (13, including playoffs) by a rookie head coach starting a rookie QB, also own the league mark for earning the playoffs in their first five seasons (2008-12)
- Set the Ravens' single-season record for completion percentage (63.1) in 2009 and QB rating (93.6) in 2010, while his 25 passing TDs in 2010 and 3,912 passing yards in 2013 rank as the second most in Ravens single-season history
- Owns the Ravens' franchise record for 300-plus-yard passing games (16)
- Ravens set a franchise record for fewest turnovers with 16 in 2012
- Flacco has led the Ravens to 39 career regular season wins at home, the most among NFL starting QBs since 2008
- From 2009-12 Flacco and Aaron Rodgers were the only NFL quarterbacks to throw for at least 3,600 yards and 20 TDs while posting 12 INTs or less
- Flacco owns 19 career game winning drives in the fourth quarter or overtime

^ -LONGEST KOR IN NFL POSTSEASON HISTORY

RAVENS RANTS: JACOBY JONES

JACOBY'S JAUNTS

Two seasons ago (in 2012), Pro Bowler WR/RS Jacoby Jones posted 2 KOR-TDs (108 yards and 105 yards) and was the NFL's only player with dual KOR-TDs. He also became the first Raven to ever have multiple KOR-TDs in a single season and a career. (Jones now has 3 regular season KOR-TDs and 1 playoff KOR-TD as a Raven.) With a 29.8 career return mark in Baltimore, Jones is the Ravens' all-time leader in KOR average (listed below).

RAVENS CAREER KICKOFF RETURN AVERAGE (Franchise History)

1.	Jacoby Jones (2012-13)	69	2,059	29.8	108t	3
2.	Corey Harris (1998-2001)	123	2,950	24.0	95t	1
3.	Yamon Figurs (2007-08)	75	1,746	23.3	94t	1

NFL Record Note:

• In 2012, Jones became the only player in NFL history to record dual KOR-TDs of at least 105 yards in a career (108- & 105-yarders). Minnesota's Cordarrelle Patterson has since joined him, doing so in 2013 (105- & 109-yarders).

PRIME PUNT RETURNER

Since entering the NFL in 2007, WR/RS Jacoby Jones has registered the NFL's second-most PR yards (2,398 on 235 returns). Jones has returned 4 punts for TDs during this time, including a 63-yarder in 2012's Week 11 win at Pit. He also owns 8 punt returns of 50-or-more yards, including three 70-plus-yarders that produced TDs.

SPECIAL TEAMS UNIT RECEIVES

In 2013, senior NFL writer Rick Gosselin of The Dallas Morning News ranked the Ravens' special teams unit No. 5 in the league in his annual comprehensive ratings system that is based on 22 categories, assigning points according to each standing — 1 for best, 32 for worst. In 2012, Gosselin ranked the Ravens' unit No. 2 in the NFL, just behind the Vikings, who finished first.

A DIFFERENCE-MAKER

• In 2013's Week 14 thrilling win over Minnesota, WR/RS Jacoby Jones ripped off his fourth-career KOR-TD and his third as a Raven when he sped 77 yards to help give the Ravens a 22-19 lead with 1:16 remaining in the game.

• Including playoffs, Jones has 5-career KOR-TDs (4 in two seasons as a Raven, with one memorable highlight being his 108-yard Super Bowl XLVII return in New Orleans).

• Jones returned 14 kickoffs for 442 yards and 1 TD over the 2013 season's final five games, sporting a 31.6-yard average.

RAVENS RANTS: HALOTI NGATA

THE DOMINANT DT

One of the NFL's most disruptive forces, DT Haloti Ngata was named to his fifth Pro Bowl in 2013. Perhaps the NFL's most athletic defensive tackle, Ngata stops the run (497 career tackles), rushes the passer (23.5 career sacks) and can even drop into coverage (3 career INTs).

Baltimore has a history of strong run defense, and with Ngata's help since 2006, has been consistently sturdy on the ground.

Rushing TDs the Ravens allowed in 2013, ranking as the NFL's fifth fewest. Baltimore also allowed just 79 rushing first downs (the NFL's seventh fewest).

FIRST-ROUND FINDS

Since moving to Baltimore in 1996, the Ravens, led by Ozzie Newsome, have had 18 drafts and selected 18 players in the first round. These picks have earned an amazing 55 combined Pro Bowls, several All-Rookie honors, multiple Defensive Player of the Year Awards and two Super Bowl MVP honors.

Top 10 Quick Hit:

• Of the seven players chosen in the Top 10 by Baltimore, five have earned Pro Bowl status. Two of those players – Peter Boulware and Terrell Suggs – also earned Defensive Rookie of the Year honors.

Late-Round Success Quick Hit:

• The Ravens have found gems late in the first round, including LB Ray Lewis (26th), TE Todd Heap (31st), S Ed Reed (24th), G Ben Grubbs (29th), QB Joe Flacco (18th) and T Michael Oher (23rd).

NFL'S TOP 100

It can be argued that the 100 best NFL players of 2013, as voted by the players late in 2012, doesn't really represent the best. Maybe coaches or scouts have a different list. Certainly, there are reporters who compiled rankings of their own. Still, it was special for the Ravens to have had six of the Top 100 on their 2013 opening day roster.

RAVENS RANTS: TORREY SMITH

DEEP THREAT

Third-year WR Torrey Smith ranked fifth in the NFL with a 17.4 yards-per-catch average in 2013, posting a career-high 1,128 yards on 65 receptions. Smith's 1,128 yards rank as the second most in Ravens single-season history (Michael Jackson – 1,201 in 1996) and were the NFL's 17th most in 2013.

5.	Torrey Smith	65	1,128	17.4	74	4

SMITH WAS SCINTILLATING

WR Torrey Smith excelled in 2013. With 6 receptions for 121 yards in Week 5 at Miami, Smith became the first Raven since Qadry Ismail in 1999 to post back-to-back 100-yard receiving games. (Ismail had three straight that year.)

• In Week 15 at Detroit, Smith (now 37) moved past Derrick Mason (35) to produce a franchise record in receptions of 25-or-more yards.

• Smith had 13 catches gaining 25-plus yards in 2013, just 1 shy of the franchise single-season record set by WR Michael Jackson (14) in 1996.

• Smith's 1,128 receiving yards in 2013 were the second most in Ravens single-season franchise history (Jackson – 1,201 in 1996).

• Smith, who produced a 17.4-yard receiving average in 2013, pulled in a 42-yard bomb in Week 16 vs. NE, marking his eighth catch of 40-or-more yards in 2013.

NOTE THE SMITH QUOTE

Rookie WR Marlon Brown on Smith's leadership: "If you're having a tough day of practice, everyone is hurting and tired, usually I just look over at Torrey, and I just see how he responds. He responds with a good attitude, so I'm going to get out there and respond with a good attitude. If something is going wrong, or if I need help with something, I go to Torrey before I go to anybody. He's our leader."

TORREY'S COURAGEOUS NIGHT

WR Torrey Smith played in the 2012 Week 3 Sunday night victory over New England after his brother, 19-year-old Tevin Jones, passed away in a motorcycle accident that morning. Smith posted 6 catches for 127 yards and 2 TDs in the come-from-behind win, producing the third 100-yard game of his young career.

SMITH BIG IN SUPER BOWL RUN

In the 2012 thrilling, double-overtime Divisional Playoff win at Denver (38-35 on 1/12/13), WR Torrey Smith caught 59-yard and 32-yard TD passes, helping mark the first game in NFL playoff history that a QB (Joe Flacco) threw 2 TDs of 59-plus yards (the other being to WR Jacoby Jones on a 70-yarder). In the 2012 postseason, Smith recorded a 21.2 yards-per-catch average, reeling in 11 passes for 233 yards.

LONG BALL LOVE

WR Torrey Smith ranks first in Ravens franchise history in yards-per-catch average, posting a 17.2 mark over the three seasons in which he's caught 164 passes for 2,824 yards and 19 TDs. Dating back to his rookie campaign (2011), his 17.2 average ranks fifth in the NFL.

IMPRESSIVE SINCE DAY ONE

In 2011's Week 11 game vs. Cin., WR Torrey Smith set a Ravens' single-season and single-game record for receiving yards by a rookie, totaling 165 yards on 6 catches (27.5 avg.). In 2011, he had 50 catches for 841 yards and a Ravens' rookie-record 7 TDs.

Smith Quick Hits:

• Smith's 26-yard TD catch with 8 seconds remaining in 2011's Week 9 at Pit. capped a 92-yard drive and sealed the Ravens' 23-20 win.

• Impressively, 5 of his 7 TD receptions in 2011 covered at least 25 yards (74, 41, 38, 36, 26, 18 and 8 yards), and he averaged a sensational 34.4 yards-per-TD catch.

• Never before has a Ravens' wideout registered dual 150-yard receiving games in a season (165 vs. Cin. and 152 at STL). Smith also posted the Top 2 receiving yards outputs by a rookie in the NFL in 2011.

RAVENS RANTS: JUSTIN TUCKER

JUST FOR KICKS

In 2013, K Justin Tucker earned his first Pro Bowl honor by setting team records in FGs made (38) and FGs attempted (41), with both figures tying (Stephen Gostkowski) for the NFL's most. Tucker had a franchise-record 140 points (tied for sixth in NFL), while his 6 FGs of 50+ yards tied (several players) for the NFL's most.

• In addition to his Pro Bowl honor, Tucker was named Special Teams Player of the Month (November) and AFC Special Teams Player of the Week three times.

• Tucker made 33-straight FGs at one point during the 2013 season, ranking as the NFL's fourth-longest streak of all time.

• His 6 FGs made on 12/16 at Detroit set a team record and were a single-game NFL high in 2013. Against the Lions, he became the first NFL kicker ever to connect from the 20-, 30-, 40-, 50- and 60-yard range in a game.

• Tucker kicked 3 game-winning FGs in 2013, including a franchise-record 61-yarder at Detroit. (He now has 6-career game-winners.)

• He is now 24-of-26 during his career when the Ravens are losing a game, and he's 16-of-17 when Baltimore is down by 7 points or less. The Pro Bowler is 12-of-13 in the last 2 minutes of a game during his career, and he's 22-of-24 in the fourth quarter.

10-career 50-plus-yard FGs by Tucker (on 11 attempts). Tucker has had three games where he's connected on dual 50+ FGs (Week 2 at Phi. & Week 7 at Hou. in 2012, and Week 15 at Det. in 2013).

OVERHEARD ABOUT TUCK

Former Ravens kicker and Ring of Honor inductee Matt Stover on K Justin Tucker:

"He's got good, high character, and that's very important. But more than anything, when you look at what he's able to do, he is just going to learn and continue to learn. He's not one of those guys that thinks he has it all figured it out, and that's the key. You never want someone to be content or to be fine staying status quo. You want someone who wants to get better, and I know he wants to do that."

ESPN.com*'s Kevin Seifert on K Justin Tucker:

"It helps that Tucker is a delightfully even-keeled personality who felt compelled, first and foremost, to joke Monday night (12/16/13 at Detroit) about his impact on fantasy football playoffs. He doesn't appear to be a person easily affected by pressure."

A makeover, not an overhaul

Ravens' top priority is to the offense, especially the running game

By Jeff Zrebiec
The Baltimore Sun
January 8, 2014

The Ravens' top decision makers will meet later this week at owner Steve Bisciotti's Florida home and the team's struggling offense will surely dominate the conversation.

But the focus, according to Bisciotti and general manager Ozzie Newsome, will be on adding to an offense that ranked 29th in the NFL this year, not overhauling it.

"When you have a short window of failure that comes out of the blue, the key is not to make wholesale changes," Bisciotti said Wednesday at the annual State of the Ravens address at the Under Armour Performance Center. "To find yourself in the bottom five in offense in almost every category is again something that — had we not had a [good] history in the last five years — I would probably demand wholesale changes.

"But, I think you have to be careful to not to look in a vacuum and throw out the baby with the bathwater, and [you] let people get healthy, let these guys work together for another year [and] add some people to the team in the draft and free agency."

Bisciotti and Newsome reiterated their confidence in quarterback Joe Flacco and running back Ray Rice, who they expect to have bounce-back years. And while offensive coordinator Jim Caldwell engages in head-coaching interviews elsewhere, Ravens head coach John Harbaugh confirmed that much-maligned run coordinator Juan Castillo will remain on his staff for next season, albeit with a new title as the offensive line coach.

Castillo's status was tenuous after the Ravens finished 30th in the NFL in rushing yards per game (83.0) and last in yards per carry (3.1). Their 1,328 rushing yards on the season set a franchise low.

"Juan will be the offensive line coach next year," Harbaugh said. "The rest of it is a little bit in flux right now."

Harbaugh said that he understood why Castillo, who joined the team before last year's Super Bowl as a consultant and then was named the run game coordinator before the season, has been such a "lightning rod" for criticism. Harbaugh blamed himself for giving Castillo the title of run game coordinator while Andy Moeller stayed on as the offensive line coach, and Todd Washington assisted the two.

"Juan functioned as the lead offensive line coach last year," Harbaugh said. "That was his job. The title was a way to have three great offensive line coaches in our mix right there [but] we didn't get the results we wanted to get."

What isn't clear is what becomes of Moeller, who has been on Harbaugh's staff the previous three years. The Ravens parted ways with running backs coach Wilbert Montgomery last week and team officials haven't dismissed the idea that there will be further changes. There has also been no declaration that Caldwell will be back for a second full season as offensive coordinator if he doesn't land a head-coaching job. Caldwell has already interviewed for the Detroit Lions and Washington Redskins' vacancies and he spent Wednesday in Tennessee meeting with Titans' officials.

Bisciotti said he'll talk more to Harbaugh about the coaching staff this weekend in Florida, but he won't demand any changes.

"I never demand," he said. "I do suggest, but right now, I haven't suggested to John to revamp his coaching staff."

Beyond that, the team's brain trust will spend significant time in the days ahead trying to figure out how to re-sign several key offensive free agents, including starting left tackle Eugene Monroe and tight end Dennis Pitta. Newsome said that the Ravens will prioritize getting bigger along the interior of the offensive line as left guard A.Q. Shipley, who started for much of the season after a season-ending back injury to Kelechi Osemele, center Gino Gradkowski and right guard Marshal Yanda are all considered undersized for their positions. Penetration up the middle affected Flacco and the run game all season.

Newsome also vowed to get Flacco another target who can get open on third down and create yards after the catch. Flacco threw a franchise-record 23 interceptions this season and struggled to connect on the deep ball and in the red zone.

"Is it going to be bringing in some additional talent? Probably, yes," Newsome said. "Is it going to be expecting some of our guys to develop and get better? We will need that, too."

But to Newsome, it has to start with having a more reliable running game. He said that he met with Rice last week and Newsome predicted the diminutive back will return to his three-time Pro Bowl form. Rice is coming off the most disappointing season of his career, ranking 30th in the NFL with 660 rushing yards.

Second-year back Bernard Pierce also struggled, though both he and Rice were limited by injuries.

“Especially in the AFC North with the type of defenses that you face, you have to have the ability to run the football,” Newsome said. “Everybody understands that in 2014, we will do everything we can to be a better run team, because it will make us a better football team.”

Harbaugh said that he exchanged text messages with several players during the first-round playoff games last weekend and their disappointment of being home for the postseason came through.

Bisciotti wouldn’t argue that point, but he wasn’t ready to demand changes, either. In past state of Ravens’ addresses, he had challenged players or coaches. He admitted that he can be a “little bit of a loose cannon.” But there was none of that Wednesday as Bisciotti had already started to move on from this season’s disappointment with both excitement and optimism.

“I think it’s fair to say it’s a failure because our goal is to be one of the top 12,” he said. “There are bigger failures out there. There are teams that are a whole lot more disappointed. If we found ourselves at 3-13, like the Falcons, then I think they’re sitting there thinking, ‘We’ve got to make a lot of changes.’ I really don’t think that we do. If 8-8 is a failure, I hope it’s a long time before I feel worse than this.”

Newsome: Bigger interior line, athletic safety, clutch receiver lead offseason agenda

Ravens coming off 8-8 season, missing playoffs for first time since the 2007 season

By Aaron Wilson
The Baltimore Sun
January 8, 2014

It didn't take long for Ravens general manager Ozzie Newsome to rattle off a specific list of priorities atop his offseason agenda.

He's looking for a bulkier, more powerful middle of the offensive line, a play-making safety and a sure-handed receiver capable of converting third downs.

Following a disappointing 8-8 season in which the Ravens failed to make the playoffs for the first time since hiring coach John Harbaugh in 2008, Newsome is now faced with upgrading the roster.

The Ravens' offensive line, especially center Gino Gradkowski and left guard A.Q. Shipley, was frequently overmatched in terms of size against imposing defensive linemen. Shipley was forced into action after Kelechi Osemele was ruled out for the season with a bulging disk that required surgery. Between Gradkowski (6 foot 3, 300 pounds), Shipley (6-1, 309 pounds) and Pro Bowl right offensive guard Marshal Yanda (6-3, 305 pounds), it was a relatively small interior offensive line.

"We've got to get bigger in the interior of our offensive line," Newsome said Wednesday during a state-of-the-team press conference at the Ravens' training complex. "That's one of the areas that I think we need to improve on."

The Ravens essentially operated with two strong safeties this season after Michael Huff proved incapable of tackling or covering aggressively. Rookie free safety Matt Elam, a natural strong safety, took Huff's spot in the starting lineup.

Elam finished fourth on the team with 76 tackles, but intercepted just one pass and had three pass deflections in 15 starts at free safety. Strong safety James Ihedigbo is an unrestricted free agent after a strong season in which he registered 98 tackles, three interceptions, two forced fumbles and one fumble recovery.

Elam appears far more comfortable operating closer to the line of scrimmage as a blitzer and enforcer in run support. So, he may shift to strong safety and the Ravens may need to go find a free safety.

Without mentioning Elam's name, Newsome made it clear that the team is looking for more of an impact out of the free safety position. "I think we need to have a more athletic safety in the defense," Newsome said.

The Ravens also struggled to replace the physical slot presence of wide receiver Anquan Boldin after trading him to the San Francisco 49ers following a contract dispute in which he refused to accept a pay cut from his $6 million base salary.

"We need to be able to get a receiver, whether it's a tight end or a wide receiver, that can make a third-and-7, third-and-8 catch and run after the catch," Newsome said.

If the Ravens can find a quick possession receiver with sure hands similar to New England Patriots wide receivers Julian Edelman or Danny Amendola, it would go a long way toward improving the ability of the offense to convert third downs. The Ravens converted just 92 of 253 (36.4 percent) of their third downs last season.

"If I was to look at the three things today, and that's coming out of a full day of personnel meetings and talking with my staff, those are some areas where we will try to add some," Newsome said. "I also believe in this: You get better by getting yourself better. I have no doubt with the work that John [Harbaugh] and his staff have done in the past, we can have that. The players that we retain on this team will be better players."

Finding the right wide receiver will be the Ravens' focus this offseason

By Matt Vensel
The Baltimore Sun
January 12, 2014

The Ravens know they need another wide receiver and they already know the exact type of playmaker they covet, not that they wanted to go into specifics with the Baltimore media during last week's season-ending news conference.

But general manager Ozzie Newsome did offer one hint as to what the Ravens might be looking for, which should have been obvious to anyone who watched their offense stall throughout the disappointing 2013 season.

"We need to be able to get a receiver — whether it's a tight end or a wide receiver — that can make a third-and-7, third-and-8 catch and run after the catch," Newsome said.

The Ravens had that receiver last year, but they traded Anquan Boldin to the San Francisco 49ers last March. They expected tight end Dennis Pitta to replace some of his production, but when Pitta hurt his hip in training camp, the void left by Boldin became glaring.

Now, after a season in which quarterback Joe Flacco struggled to get in sync with a mostly inexperienced group of wide receivers while throwing a career-high 22 interceptions, the Ravens say adding another wide receiver is one of their top offseason priorities.

"I think we've identified the type of receiver that we want," Newsome said, glancing over at coach John Harbaugh, who was seated to his left. "And when John told me [the type of receiver he wanted], I lit up, because I was right there with him as to what we're looking for in a receiver this year. And I think before the 2014 season ends, we will have that guy on our football team."

There is a reason why Newsome seemed so confident. Matt Miller, the lead NFL draft writer for Bleacher Report, said the group of wide receivers in this year's draft is deep and talented.

He believes Clemson's Sammy Watkins, who many are projecting to be a top-10 pick, is a "can't-miss prospect" and he expects Texas A&M's Mike Evans and USC's Marqise Lee to come off the board in the middle of the first round. He said there is a group of six or seven "really talented" wide receivers who could be selected late in the first round or in the second.

"With so many underclassmen — [19 as of Sunday evening] — entering at the position, there's an amazing amount of talent and upside available," Miller said.

The Ravens will have either the 16th or 17th overall pick in May's draft depending on the outcome of a coin flip with the Dallas Cowboys at the scouting combine.

Miller projected one of those underclassmen, Evans, to the Ravens at that pick in his latest mock draft.

"He's very much like Boldin in that he can essentially box-out and position himself like a tight end and give them the tough yards over the middle they're lacking," Miller said.

After Boldin was shipped to San Francisco, third-year wide receiver Torrey Smith, who led the team with 1,128 receiving yards became the closest thing to a consistent receiving threat, but the Ravens used him on the perimeter on the majority of his snaps.

Undrafted rookie Marlon Brown led the Ravens with seven touchdowns but did not make a major impact outside of the red zone. Jacoby Jones, a pending free agent, was often a non-factor, too. And youngsters Tandon Doss and Deonte Thompson, who competed in the preseason to replace Boldin in the slot, did not come close to meeting the hype from the coaching staff.

The offense lacked a precise route-runner who could gain yards after the catch. Smith was the only Ravens wide receiver who ranked in the top 40 at the position in yards after the catch, according to Pro Football Focus.

"Making plays after the catch is a specialty in this class," Miller said, mentioning players such as Lee, LSU's Odell Beckham and Penn State's Allen Robinson. "Throughout the first three rounds there figures to be plenty of talent available to fit those needs."

Drafting wide receivers is one thing. Developing them is another. And despite hitting on Smith in 2011, the Ravens don't have a good track record. They have drafted 20 wide receivers since 1996. Smith just became the first to top 1,000 receiving yards in a season with the Ravens.

"You can draft a Torrey Smith in the second round, and you can have some success, and you can draft Travis Taylor in the first, and you can blow it. The wide receiver position in the draft, there are a lot of hits and misses," Newsome said. "And what we've tried to do is identify guys that have certain traits that can come in, and I think we've got a real, real good receivers coach in Jim Hostler who helps develop [them]."

If the Ravens choose to go with a proven but more costly commodity in free agency, there are some intriguing options there, too.

Soon-to-be free agent Julian Edelman, who topped 100 catches and 1,000 receiving yards for the New England Patriots this season, is a polished route-runner who has a knack for making plays after the catch, something the Ravens saw firsthand when the Patriots beat them in Week 16.

Eric Decker of the Denver Broncos and Boldin are two other potential free agents who gained a sizable chunk of their yards as slot receivers. Hakeem Nicks of the New York Giants, Jeremy Maclin of the Philadelphia Eagles and Green Bay's James Jones are also among a productive group of NFL wide receivers slated to become free agents.

Whether it is through free agency, the draft or a trade, Newsome believes the Ravens will be able to find the kind of wide receiver they are looking for.

"There is no reason that he might not be here at the beginning of the season," Newsome said. "But I always try to leave myself a little leeway to give us a chance to get it right."

Harbaugh chimed in, saying, "I'm going to put a little pressure on Ozzie to get that going a little bit before the first game, if possible."

"We've identified it, and that's the first step," Newsome replied.

Putting Ravens' season in perspective

By Jamison Hensley
ESPN.com
January 3, 2014

Baltimore Ravens coach John Harbaugh noticed a similar look in his players' eyes when meeting with them for the final time this season.

"I see guys that are a cross between a little -- I don't know if 'stunned' is the right word -- but this is not something they're used to, and they're a little bit ticked off," Harbaugh said.

The Ravens didn't make the playoffs for the first time in Harbaugh's six seasons with the team, so there is going to be heightened criticism on why they failed to measure up this year. But, if you're putting everything in the proper perspective, this season was disappointing but far from devastating.

Baltimore had a chance to win the division with two weeks left in the season, and it had a shot to earn a playoff berth in the final one. Yes, Baltimore failed to return to the playoffs like Denver, New England, Indianapolis and Cincinnati. But it could've been worse. Much worse. The Ravens' season didn't bottom out like the Houston Texans (2-14) and Atlanta Falcons (4-12), two division winners who entered the season with championship aspirations just like Baltimore.

"Over the last couple months, we battled, and it's tough to see it end like this," running back Ray Rice said. "We could've done some great things, and we'll just try to bounce back and get back to where we need to get back to next year."

The Ravens are a victim of their own success. It was 14 years ago, in coach Brian Billick's first season, that an 8-8 season was lauded as a success. It says a lot about how the Ravens' franchise has grown when breaking even is considered an underachievement.

There were a lot of changes made to the Ravens -- the most turnover in a starting lineup ever for a defending Super Bowl champion -- but I still predicted they would win the division because of the talent that remained. But what record would you have predicted if I told you this: Joe Flacco would throw a career-high 22 interceptions, Ray Rice would average a career-worst 3.1 yards per carry and the defense would allow a franchise-worst 134 points in the fourth quarter. Now, 8-8 doesn't seem as bad.

What kept the Ravens from living up to expectations was their inability to beat the NFL's top teams. Baltimore was 1-4 against playoff teams. The Ravens were outscored in losses to Denver, New England and Cincinnati -- the AFC's top three seeds -- by a combined score of 124-51.

What kept the Ravens from making the playoffs were road losses to two last-place teams. Defeats at Buffalo and Cleveland were the difference between an 8-8 season and a 10-6 one.

This sense of disappointment led Harbaugh to wrap up his end-of-the-season press conference by saying, "I'm sorry that we didn't live up to that standard this year, but we will be back."

Harbaugh Identifies List Of Problems To Fix This Offseason

The head coach apologized for failing to meet Ravens' standards, but is confident 'we will be back.'

Head Coach John Harbaugh opened his season-ending press conference with an apology.

“I apologize for the fact that we’re even having this press conference, for the fact that we have to sit here and talk about the fact that we’re wrapping up the season and the playoffs haven’t even started yet,” he said.

The Ravens’ five-year stretch of consecutive playoff appearances ended not because of one problem this year. It was a collection of issues.

And on Tuesday, Harbaugh went through the main points that the team will address this offseason.

“[These] are things that would have made a difference in games that probably would have gotten us in the playoffs,” he said. “Coaches are working on this.”

Run The Ball Better

Harbaugh said not running the ball effectively was “probably our biggest disappointment.”

The Ravens finished with a franchise-low 3.1 yards per carry, which ranked last in the NFL. Baltimore’s 83 rushing yards per game were third worst in the league. Pro Bowler Ray Rice put up just 660 rushing yards after topping 1,100 each of the past four years.

There are a number of factors that go into why the run game flopped, and eventually had to be largely abandoned due to lack of effectiveness.

“You’ve got to be able to throw the ball well to protect the running game,” Harbaugh said. “You’ve got to be able to block people, and move people and knock people around in order to run the ball. You’ve got to create some angles to create situations where there are mismatches. And you’ve got to be able to make some plays out there when plays aren’t there and create some yards.”

Rice’s leg injuries (hip then thigh) made it more difficult. The offensive line struggled to pick up the necessary blocks, especially early in the year, and then simply didn’t execute well enough when they did. Fullback Vonta Leach was rarely used as the team shifted away from the run.

Protect Flacco Better

Joe Flacco is the franchise quarterback, and thus there's a high priority on keeping him healthy, something that didn't happen this season.

Flacco was sacked a career-high 48 times. He took the second most sacks of any quarterback in the league this year, trailing only Miami's Ryan Tannehill (58 sacks).

Flacco played the final two games of the regular season, both losses that knocked the Ravens out of the playoffs, with a hobbled left knee as a result of a helmet hit by Lions outside linebacker DeAndre Levy. Flacco was sacked six times in those two games.

Hit Big Plays

The Ravens were among the best in big plays in 2012, logging 72 over the course of the year to finish third in the NFL.

They thought they would have even more potential for big plays this offseason when they welcomed in more speed to the offense with Deonte Thompson, Tandon Doss, gave Jacoby Jones the No. 2 spot and made Torrey Smith the lead receiver.

But that didn't happen. The Ravens had just 50 big plays, tied for 29th in the league.

Without chain-moving wide receiver Anquan Boldin and tight end Dennis Pitta for most of the year, the Ravens needed to at least get big chunks to move the ball.

Defense Needs To Finish

In many categories, the Ravens defense improved this season when compared to the Super Bowl-winning unit.

They were 12th in the league in points scored per game (22), compared to 17th a year ago (21.5). The Ravens ranked 12th in yards allowed per game (335.5), an improvement from 17th and an average of 350.9 last season. The Ravens were 12th against the pass and 11th against the run.

"You look at it statistically, you look at the numbers – that's what you do at the end of the year – you've got to say we were a good defense. We were a really good defense," Harbaugh said.

"But, our defensive coaches and our defensive players are going to tell you that that's not good enough. They want to be a top defense – one, maybe two, maybe three when it's all said and done. That is the standard for the Ravens defense, and that's what we're going to chase."

But one area where Baltimore's defense struggled was in the final quarter and minutes of games. It too frequently allowed long scoring drives at the most inopportune times.

The Ravens couldn't get off the field against Green Bay, versus the Steelers at home, Cleveland on the road, in Chicago in overtime, against the Vikings in a back-and-forth game at home, then late against the Bengals after rallying to tie the game at 17.

"We need to be better in the fourth quarter, and we need to be better at protecting leads at the end of the game," Harbaugh said.

Although the Ravens' postseason is starting earlier than usual, Harbaugh is approaching it with "an enthusiasm unknown to mankind," citing his family motto.

"We will work like crazy to improve and become better. But, this is going to be sticking in our craw for quite a long time – I can tell you that," Harbaugh said.

The Ravens will have several months to think about their issues before getting back on the field.

"I'm sorry that we didn't live up to that standard this year, but we will be back," Harbaugh said to end his press conference.

Steve Bisciotti Calls Season A Failure, But Is Optimistic

The owner doesn't think the team needs wholesale changes, but expects offensive personnel moves.

Asked what his top priority will be this offseason, Ravens Owner Steve Bisciotti joked, "Work on that 30-yard chip shot. I'm horrible at it."

More than a week after coming up short of the playoffs for the first time in the past six years, the Ravens' passionate, yet level-headed owner was at peace.

There's no doubt about it. The Ravens' 8-8 record is subpar. But Bisciotti isn't about to push the big red button.

"I think your heart wants to react quickly. I think your head, if you're a wise businessman, you take time and you listen to a lot of people and you contemplate a lot of different things," Bisciotti said.

"Failure is part of success. We're all very disappointed here, as disappointed obviously as our fans are – even more so. I'm comfortable with where we are. I'm comfortable with where we're headed."

Bisciotti and Head Coach John Harbaugh put things in perspective. By the Ravens' standards over the past six years, 8-8 seems like the sky is falling.

"I think it's fair to say it's a failure because our goal is to be one of the top-12," Bisciotti said.

"But there are bigger failures out there. There are teams that are a whole lot more disappointed. … If 8-8 is a failure, I hope it's a long time before I feel worse than this."

Bisciotti said he felt more disappointed two years ago when the Ravens lost to New England in the AFC championship because that one was more painful. This year's team may not have been as good as that one, but it was still – all things considered – a contender.

The Ravens were tied in the third quarter of their regular-season finale in Cincinnati. Had they executed just a little better even in that last game (like score touchdowns instead of field goals in the first quarter), they would be in the playoffs as the No. 6 seed.

Then who knows? Last year proved that any team in the playoffs can win the Super Bowl.

"I think we could have beaten Cincinnati like San Diego did," Bisciotti said. "I'd be just as comfortable going into Denver and New England this year because of what happened last year.

"We're still 10 days away from losing and it still bothers us all, but quality people take that as fuel and make the most of it. I'm getting over it and I'm excited about going forward."

Bisciotti is taking into account all the aspects that hindered the Ravens this year. Yes, quarterback Joe Flaccothrew a career-high 22 interceptions. Yes, the run game ranked last in the NFL in average yards per carry.

But, as Bisciotti pointed out, running backs Ray Rice and Bernard Pierce were limited by multiple injuries. Had they been healthy, maybe the offensive line would have performed better. Had the offensive line done better, maybe the running backs could have done more even with their injuries. Had the run game worked, maybe Flacco wouldn't have had so much on his shoulders.

There are many more factors that go into why the Ravens lost just as many games as they won. For that reason, and because there is cache built up from five previous years in the playoffs, it's not time to throw out philosophies or people that made the franchise so successful.

"When you have a short window of failure that comes out of the blue, the key is not to make wholesale changes," Bisciotti said.

"Had we not had a history in the last five years, then I would probably demand wholesale changes. But, I think you have to be careful to not to look in a vacuum and decide you have to throw out the baby with the bathwater and let people get healthy, let these guys work together for another year, add some people to the team in the draft and free agency."

Don't mistake the comments as being afraid to make changes, however. Baltimore even made wide-sweeping roster alterations after winning Super Bowl XLVII less than a year ago.

The numbers that Bisciotti said were “so striking” was to find the Ravens in the bottom five of nearly every offensive category. Baltimore was 29th in overall offense, 25th in points per game, 30th in rushing and 31st in red-zone touchdown efficiency.

That is where the focus will be on improving.

“I think it’s safe to say that we’re going to look at the offense with the same fine-tooth comb that we looked at the defense last year,” Bisciotti said. “So, I think you’re going to see a lot of changes in personnel and how we approach that. I’m pretty proud of the defense for being able to retool on the fly, and I’ve got the same amount of confidence with these guys in building the offense.”

The Ravens have already begun that process. Harbaugh has already spent time with his coaches, Flacco and Rice in detailed conversations about this year’s offense and what they need to do to be better in 2014. He’ll have many conversations with Newsome about that too.

“There’s no doubt in my mind John has a very good understanding of the direction of this offense and of what we need to do,” General Manager Ozzie Newsome said. “He and I are very much on the same page.”

Overall, Bisciotti’s role won’t change. He’ll listen, let his thoughts be known and let his football people make the decisions. That’s why he said he enjoys the offseason more than the season. Bisciotti gets to do his job managing people, and there’s no stress of the games that are out of his control.

“[My role is] to support my coach and my GM and get this thing moving in the right direction,” Bisciotti said. “We had a lot of failures on the football field – offense and defense. So I know they’ve got their work cut out for them.

“It’s to be a sounding board for them and to encourage them to make the kind of decisions that they believe are the right ones for us. And I love that part of the job. Even under duress, I still love that part of the job.”

Ravens asst. GM Eric DeCosta sees chance for team to improve with deep draft

By Aaron Wilson
The Baltimore Sun
January 22, 2014

One year ago, the Ravens' coaching staff was busy preparing for Super Bowl XLVII instead of evaluating draft prospects at the Senior Bowl.

It's an entirely different situation this week.

Following an 8-8 season where they failed to make the playoffs for the first time in six years, the Ravens' offseason has launched much earlier than they had hoped. And the majority of the Ravens' coaches are at the Senior Bowl -- except for coach John Harbaugh as he continues to interview offensive coordinator candidates back in Baltimore -- along with general manager Ozzie Newsome and the scouting department.

As the Ravens head into a challenging time where they're faced with several personnel decisions, including unresolved contract situations for outside linebacker Terrell Suggs, tight end Dennis Pitta and offensive tackle Eugene Monroe, their focus this week is on the upcoming draft class. Between practices Wednesday at Ladd-Peebles Stadium, The Baltimore Sun conducted the following interview with Ravens assistant general manager Eric DeCosta.

What's the mindset like now for the organization about what to do after a year where there were so many problems?

"It is disappointing, but we're going to move on. We're going to use these feelings of disappointment really as momentum for us to attack this offseason with tremendous enthusiasm and diligence. Fortunately, we've been in this position before. We have tremendous confidence in our coaches and scouts and we'll try to make the best decisions for our team based on the culture that John and Ozzie have tried to build long-term here in Baltimore. We'll get this thing turned around for our fans and the Baltimore community.

"I think sometimes you have to get sand kicked in your face a little bit to respond appropriately. We're disappointed by the end of the season. We certainly think we're capable of turning this thing around and getting back in the playoffs this year. We have a lot of confidence in our players that they'll respond to the challenge and get us back to where we belong."

There's been a lot of talk about this team needing to upgrade at wide receiver, tight end, offensive line and free safety. What do you see as the primary needs?

"What we saw after this season is we have a lot of needs at a lot of positions. It's bad to be in that position, I think, as an organization, but I think in terms of building your team it's good because we have the flexibility to draft players at a wide variety of positions. We think we need some running back depth. That definitely would be a position of need. Tight end, we have some uncertainty at that position with different players' contracts being up (Pitta, Ed Dickson, Dallas Clark). So, that's a strong position we think for us to look at in this year's draft.

"Offensive line did not perform up to our standards this year. We'd like to add some additional young players to help us to bolster the strength of that unit, linebacker as well. If we have a chance to select a good, young linebacker, that would be good. Safety, we'd like to address that position in this year's draft. With a lot of good players in the draft, we have a chance to get better at a lot of different positions. And that will be our focus."

Depending on how the coin flip goes with the Dallas Cowboys in February at the NFL scouting combine, you'll either have the 16th or 17th overall pick of the first round. Do you feel good about your chances of obtaining a player who can make an immediate impact?

"That's how we see it. As great as it is to be picking at the end of each round, which is an indicator that you had a good season the year before, it's hard to find good players year after year at the back of each of these rounds and the league has created a system that's really based on creating a sense of parity and an even level of playing field. It's exciting for us when we see the quality of this year's draft. With the top of the draft, we think we have the chance to get an impact player pretty quickly.

"It's a deep draft. If you consider the fact that quarterbacks typically will get drafted pretty high and add those guys into the mix, there's a really good chance that a good player is going to fall down to us. We've had some success in years past thinking about years where we got Suggs [2003], [defensive tackle] Haloti [Ngata in 2006], [cornerback] Chris McAlister [1999]. We've been able to find a very high level player from pick No. 10 on. We're excited about that possibility this year."

After drafting five players last year who played in the Senior Bowl, how important is this all-star game to the Ravens?

"Just getting a chance to see these guys compete against each other on a very even playing field, to see these guys respond to NFL coaching, the drill work, the ability to interview these guys at night, our scouts do a really good job of getting a profile on all these guys, building a personality profile of all of these players, that's a critical piece to the draft puzzle. The Senior Bowl allows us collectively as a staff to talk to these guys, to see these guys up close and personal on the practice field, to get a sense of their body types, personalities. It's a huge litmus test for us to put these guys through to see how they respond, how they compete, how they hold up to the pro style of coaching to different drills to being against a better level of competition. It's a huge thing for us in the evaluation process.

[Senior Bowl executive director and former Ravens executive] Phil Savage, obviously with his Baltimore Ravens ties, this is a great job he does each year. He's tweaked the format, which I think is very scout-friendly. He's built an incredible roster of players this year. For us, it's one-stop shopping. It makes our job very easy."

The NFL has moved the draft to May 8, citing scheduling conflicts at Radio City Music Hall in New York. How do you see the extra time affecting the scouting process?

"Anytime the league tweaks the schedule or makes changes with the draft process we take it as an opportunity to get better. We will tweak some things. We'll do some different things schedule-wise do some different things with the coaches and scouts and we'll use the time wisely. It gives us more time to evaluate players, more time to answer unanswered questions and to get the board lined up. We'll do the best we can to make the best decisions possible for the Ravens."

What's your take on your rookie class from last season, including first-round safety Matt Elam?

"We're excited about all those guys. Matt played a lot this year, and we think he's going to play better and better and better. We're very excited about him. [Second-round inside linebacker] Arthur Brown came back from an injury early in training camp, and his ceiling is unlimited with his athletic skills. We think [third-round defensive tackle] Brandon Williams flashed for us this year with a very, very good preseason, explosive guy. He's really going to have the opportunity to play next year and play well. I think the offseason with him is going to be big. I think [fourth-round outside linebacker] John Simon showed a lot of pass rush skill. A good, young developmental player, his future is very bright. [Fourth-round fullback] Kyle Juszczyk did an outstanding job on special teams for us this year. He's going to be a guy again who should probably find a role on offense, very good hands. We're very, very happy with him.

"[Fifth-round offensive tackle] Ricky Wagner played for us in spurts, did a good job for us and he's going to be a guy who's really going to compete to play. [Sixth-round center Ryan Jensen] is smart, tough, very dedicated, he works his craft. He'll compete with [incumbent starting center] Gino [Gradkowski] and compete with all those interior guys and A.Q. Shipley. I think we'll have a chance to have very good depth and see who emerges from that group of guys. [Seventh-round receiver Aaron Mellette] showed some things in the preseason, made some catches down the field. Anytime you have some young players who compete for one or two spots that's what you're trying to get to have them duke it out."

What do you glean from looking back at the draft picks that don't work out for whichever reason?

"I think what we really try to do is pretty simple. We watch the tape and try to build a consensus with our scouts and coaches. We try to find players that appeal to us in different ways, guys that are versatile, smart and tough who we think would fit in very well. We bring them in. We get them coached up. We develop them in the offseason and we hope that they become what we thought they were going to be. We've made mistakes. Hopefully, we hit on a few guys down the road.

"I think we've got a wonderful structure in place with our scouting staff and our coaches working very, very well together. When you have the scouting, the coaching and the strength and conditioning program all working together, most of our guys really do improve. I think that's been the biggest part of the success we've had."

Ravens remain optimistic regarding 2013 draft class

By Matt Zenitz
Carroll County Times
January 12, 2014

First-round pick Matt Elam was the only member of the Ravens' 2013 draft class to become a starter this season.

He was also the only member of the draft class to play any sort of significant role.

But Baltimore remains optimistic regarding the class despite the lack of an impact it made this season.

"The biggest improvement usually is between the first and second year," Ravens coach John Harbaugh said last week. "That's something that's an old wives' tale in coaching a little bit and football a little bit. Whether it's the first week to the second week, the first game to the second game or the first year to the second year, these guys have been through it now one time. They're going to make major strides."

Even Elam didn't do much of note aside from a late season game against the Detroit Lions.

He finished the year with just one interception, only three pass deflections and without any forced fumbles. He was also beaten for some big plays in coverage, including a 53-yard touchdown in Week 17. But he did start the final 15 games and had 10 tackles, a tackle for a loss and a game-sealing interception during that game against the Lions.

"Matt Elam should be a really, really good safety in this league," Harbaugh said. "He's fast, he's physical, and he's going to understand the expectations a little more. He's going to anticipate checks a little better. He's going to understand what it means to stay deep when you're supposed to stay deep. …

"Those are things that sometimes you learn from experience the hard way. He didn't make too many mistakes for a guy who played that many repetitions as a safety, so it's a good start for him."

Second-round inside linebacker Arthur Brown only played in sub-packages and finished with just 15 tackles, but Harbaugh said he expects Brown to Baltimore's starting weak-side linebacker in 2014.

Harbaugh also said that third-round defensive tackle Brandon Williams should at the very least be a part of the Ravens' defensive line rotation.

Williams was inactive six of the final eight games, but he did play in seven games.

"He proved that he can play," Harbaugh said. "We had a lot of depth there this year. He had a little maturing to do, and he should be in the mix."

Fourth-round fullback Kyle Juszczyk struggled enough during the summer that the Ravens re-signed veteran Vonta Leach.

He then played just a handful of snaps on offense during the season.

However, Harbaugh said that Juszczyk was one of Baltimore's best players on special teams, and the team is hopeful that he can play a more significant role on offense in 2014.

The Ravens want to be an up-tempo offense. Juszczyk's ability to play multiple positions would give them more options when going up-tempo.

"Kyle has got to be a huge part of what he we do going forward. … He's the link as far as being a move guy, lining up in the backfield and lining up out as a wide receiver," Harbaugh said. "He can do those things. We have high hopes for him."

Sixth-round offensive lineman Ryan Jensen didn't play in any games after breaking his foot early in training camp while fifth-round offensive lineman Ricky Wagner saw just minimal playing time, but both could end up starting next season depending on what Baltimore adds this offseason.

Sixth-round defensive lineman Kapron Lewis-Moore could also challenge for a starting role.

Lewis-Moore missed this year as he worked back from a torn anterior cruciate ligament he suffered as a senior at Notre Dame, but the Ravens had him rated as an earlier-round prospect before he hurt his knee.

Starting defensive tackle Arthur Jones leaving as a free agent would create an opportunity for Lewis-Moore to start. So would Baltimore deciding to part ways with defensive end Chris Canty.

Lewis-Moore practiced for three weeks late in the season before the Ravens decided not to activate him from the non-football injury list. "[He's] got a chance to be a starting five- technique or be in the rotation for sure," Harbaugh said.

Baltimore is also optimistic regarding seventh-round wide receiver Aaron Mellette and fourth-round outside linebacker John Simon.

Mellette missed the season after undergoing knee surgery, but he has good size at 6-foot-2, 217 pounds and had nine catches for 140 yards and two touchdowns during the preseason.

"[He] showed a lot as a deep ball wide receiver and a red zone threat in preseason. … Aaron is going to be a guy who's going to be in the mix, too," Harbaugh said.

Simon was inactive seven of the final nine games, but coaches at Ohio State raved about Simon's work ethic when he was in college. Harbaugh has also spoken about Simon's work ethic.

"Nobody practices harder, works harder than John Simon," Harbaugh said. "I think he's just going to make himself into a player. He'll find a way to get on the field, one way or another. He's got some pass rushing talent."

So while the class didn't make much of an impact this season, the Ravens are hopeful that those nine members of the class that remain on the roster will all be capable of being bigger factors in 2014.

Ravens offense will be critical focus for Harbaugh and staff during offseason

By Jeff Zrebiec
The Baltimore Sun
December 31, 2013

Saying he feels a sense of urgency with his team missing the playoffs for the first time in his six-season tenure, Ravens coach John Harbaugh vowed to explore all avenues this offseason to fix a disappointing offense.

In a 40-plus minute news conference Tuesday at the Under Armour Performance Center, Harbaugh acknowledged that upgrading the much-maligned offensive line is an offseason priority, backed struggling running back Ray Rice and didn't completely rule out changes with his coaching staff.

There have been lingering questions about the status of offensive coordinator Jim Caldwell and run game coordinator Juan Castillo after the Ravens finished the season ranked 30th in the NFL in total offense, and with the least productive running game in franchise history.

"I don't want to get into all that right now because I just don't think that would be fair," Harbaugh said when asked about potential changes on his staff. "I don't want to say that I'm never going to do anything or I'm always going to do something. I don't plan on doing anything right now … [but] I don't want to make an oath that I really don't know the answer to for the future."

Harbaugh did praise his staff, including Castillo, the 32-year coaching veteran who joined the team as a consultant during last season's playoff run. Castillo signed a lucrative three-year deal to direct the running game and the offensive line, but his first full season with the Ravens was a tumultuous one.

The Ravens finished 30th in the NFL in rushing yards per game (83.0) and last in yards per carry (3.1). Their 1,328 rushing yards on the season was the lowest total in franchise story, significantly falling under the previous low of 1,589 yards in 1997. Quarterback Joe Flacco was also sacked a career-high 48 times.

"It's a lot of things and that's part of it," Harbaugh said when asked about Castillo's responsibility for the offensive line's woes. "Juan Castillo will be the first guy to say put it all on his shoulders. There are probably a lot of people out there willing to do that. … Being in those meetings every single day and being a part of that thing every single day, I know better, and every one of our players knows better, and every one of our coaches knows that there are a lot of things that go into that. I've got complete confidence and belief in all of our coaches. It goes for Juan Castillo; it goes for all of our guys. I think he's a great coach, but I think all of our guys are great coaches. But, we've got to coach better."

He did call the team's failure to run the football his biggest disappointment.

"Really, we're built — and we philosophically believe — in being a rough, tough, physical offense that can run the football," Harbaugh said. "That's the way we started, and that hasn't changed. No matter where you go with the passing game, that has got to be a staple of what we're going to do. And it wasn't this year. … We tried like crazy, but we didn't put it together this year."

With the organization not part of the playoffs for the first time since 2007, Harbaugh said that the Ravens' brain trust, which includes owner Steve Bisciotti, team president Dick Cass, general manager Ozzie Newsome, assistant general manager Eric DeCosta and senior vice president of football administration Pat Moriarty, will meet at Bisciotti's Florida home in a couple of weeks to discuss personnel, the salary cap and other big-picture issues.

In the mean time, Harbaugh and his staff are currently working through a "thorough self-examination" of the team's offensive and defensive schemes and the Ravens' personnel. Harbaugh said that "everything is going to be on the table" as far as personnel and scheme changes, and that is particularly true with the offensive line.

Both tackles — Eugene Monroe and Michael Oher — are free agents, starting left guard Kelechi Osemele will be coming off back surgery and center Gino Gradkowski struggled for much of the season though Harbaugh said that he saw "major progress" in Gradkowski's first season as a starter. Only right guard Marshal Yanda is entrenched at a starting position along the line.

"I think there will be a competitive situation pretty much at every spot on the offensive line except right guard," Harbaugh said.

Harbaugh, however, wouldn't put all the blame on the offensive line, which dealt with the retirement of center Matt Birk, a season-ending injury to Osemele and the in-season acquisition of Monroe after left tackle Bryant McKinnie faltered.

He acknowledged that the Ravens' ground attack was affected by the health problems of Ray Rice, who rushed for just 660 yards, ranking 30th in the NFL. Harbaugh said that he met with Rice Tuesday morning and the three-time Pro Bowl selection vowed to come back strong.

"My expectations for Ray Rice are to be one of the very best running backs in the National Football League," Harbaugh said. "That's the standard for Ray. … When he says he's going to come back in the best shape of his life and be better than ever, I'm confident that he's going to do exactly that."

Harbaugh also expressed confidence that the Ravens' passing game would rebound. The Ravens finished 18th in the NFL in passing yards per game (224) and Flacco's 22 interceptions were three more than any quarterback in team history had ever thrown.

Harbaugh admitted that the team struggled to fill Dennis Pitta's role with the tight end missing the first 12 games with a hip injury, and never did find an adequate replacement for veteran wide receiver Anquan Boldin, who was traded to the San Francisco 49ers for a sixth-round pick in March.

While saying that he thinks adding another wide receiver could be a priority, the head coach made clear that the group's struggles weren't just a personnel issue.

"We were not as good in the passing game as we need to be. We were not on," Harbaugh said. "I think Joe uses the word, 'We're off.' We're just a little off, too often. Whether it's the way a route is run, whether it's accuracy, whether it's the way a play is read out, the way it's organized when it's called, the protection, the [hot routes], we never got that together the way we need to. And if we're going to be what we need to be going forward, we have to go to work on getting that done. It's not going to start in [organized team activities], it's got to start well before that."

To Harbaugh, there's no time like the present.

"I'm not real happy about having the time [now], but we're going to make the most of it," he said. "It goes to the draft, it goes to free agency, and it goes to building our system, scheme-wise. Those are all the things that we'll go to work on right now."

After 34-17 loss to Bengals, Ravens miss playoffs for first time since 2007

With 8-8 record, Ravens fail to make postseason for first time under John Harbaugh

By Jeff Zrebiec
The Baltimore Sun
December 30, 2013

Joe Flacco walked slowly off the field, his hands resting on his hips and his head down. He didn't even give a cursory glance at the Cincinnati Bengals celebrating in the end zone.

When he finally got to the sideline following Dre Kirkpatrick's 21-yard interception return for a touchdown, Flacco pulled off his helmet and tossed it to the ground, creating a defining image for a Ravens season that was just minutes away from ending.

Whether that was the moment when it had finally set in for Flacco and the rest of his teammates is unclear, but they'll have plenty of time to digest the reality now.

The Ravens are not going to the playoffs, their title defense officially coming to an end Sunday. A 34-17 loss to the AFC North champion Bengals in front of an announced 62,406 at Paul Brown Stadium sealed the Ravens' fate and ended their NFL-best five-year postseason run.

"It's tough. It's disappointing," Flacco said. "But we're an 8-8 football team — we don't deserve to be there. It just is what it is. Everybody in that locker room is used to winning and getting in the playoffs and giving ourselves a shot to win it all. It's disappointing not to have done that for ourselves, but we didn't play well and at 8-8, we don't deserve to be in there."

Flacco's comments were reiterated throughout a quiet locker room. Nobody made excuses or shifted blame. To a man, the Ravens admitted that they simply weren't good enough to earn the right to keep playing, not just on Sunday, when they allowed Cincinnati to score the game's final 17 points, but all season.

"We have no choice but to accept it," Ravens strong-side linebacker Elvis Dumervil said. "We have a talented group of guys and coaching staff, so it's very disappointing. We worked hard all season and did a lot of good things this year, but it wasn't good enough to make it to the playoffs."

It had all set up perfectly for the Ravens, too. They needed a victory and a loss by either the Miami Dolphins against the New York Jets or the San Diego Chargers versus the playoff-bound Kansas City Chiefs to qualify for the postseason. Just as the Ravens were getting back into their game, the Jets were taking control against the Dolphins en route to a 20-7 victory.

But the Ravens couldn't take advantage and the beneficiary was the Chargers who beat the Chiefs, 27-24, in overtime to capture the second and final wild-card spot. The Ravens' hated rivals, the Pittsburgh Steelers, would have gone to the playoffs if the Chargers lost.

"It's obviously a very difficult, disappointing loss," said Ravens coach John Harbaugh, who was seeking to join Bill Cowher as the only NFL coach to reach the playoffs in the first six seasons to start an NFL head-coaching career. "That's it, that ends it. That stings."

Their final loss might as well serve as a microcosm of their season. The Ravens persevered through a slew of offensive miscues and defensive breakdowns to come back from an 11-point halftime deficit and tie the game late in the third quarter.

But their defense couldn't get off the field and maintain the momentum, allowing a 90-yard scoring drive that ended on Bengals quarterback Andy Dalton's 1-yard touchdown run that gave Cincinnati a 24-17 lead with 13:29 to play.

Of the Ravens' final five possessions, three of them ended on Flacco interceptions, one of them on a Sam Koch punt and another when they were stopped on downs in the game's final seconds. The Bengals, who watched Dalton throw four interceptions, kept giving the visitors opportunities to stay in the game but the Ravens kept handing them right back.

"That's usually the case when you're not sharp enough," said Flacco, whose three interceptions give him 22 for the season, three more than any quarterback in Ravens' history. "Usually, the same problems keep presenting themselves, even at the end of the game. They gave us an easy touchdown there and we can't get it. It's just you're that much off and when you're that much off over the course of 16 games, you're not going to be special enough to win football games. That's just kind of where we are."

All of the Ravens' flaws throughout the year reared on the regular season's final day. When he wasn't throwing interceptions, Flacco was running for his life on his sore left knee. The offensive line struggled and the running game was again nonexistent with starter Ray Rice watching much of the game from the sideline because of what Harbaugh cited as a decision made by the offensive coaches with Rice's quad injury in mind.

Even when they got into Bengals' territory — and they were set up well early thanks to two Dalton interceptions — the Ravens couldn't finish drives. The Ravens were just 1-of-4 from the red zone and finished the season with just two touchdowns in their final 12 quarters.

"I thought that was the issue the week before too, and the week before that," said Harbaugh of the team's red-zone woes. "That's been an issue down the stretch for us — scoring touchdowns in the red zone — and it got us again in this game."

Their lone touchdown Sunday was an 8-yard catch by Marlon Brown, which coupled by Rice's two-point conversion run, tied the game at 17 with 5:13 left in the third quarter. At that point, several of the players noticed on the scoreboard that the Jets had the lead over the Dolphins. The Ravens, who had scored 11 unanswered points in a little over four minutes, certainly had all the momentum.

"When we tied it up at 17, I thought, 'here we go,'" said fullback Vonta Leach. "We hadn't played good all day but we fought to get back in the game. Then, the game just kind of got away from us."

It started with the Bengals' 12-play, 90-yard drive that ate up 6:44 and ended with Dalton all but walking into the end zone. It continued with Flacco throwing an interception on the very next play from scrimmage as Chris Crocker caught a ball that was tipped at the line of scrimmage, setting up a field goal by Mike Nugent.

Two possessions later came another Flacco pick, followed by the backbreaker, Kirkpatrick's 21-yard interception return for a touchdown that made it 34-17 with just over four minutes to play. As he walked off the field following his final interception of 2013, Flacco looked deflated and resigned to the team's fate.

In March, a little more than a month after leading the Ravens to their second Super Bowl title and being named the game's most valuable player, Flacco received a $120.6 million contract extension, making him the highest paid player in team history.

This certainly wasn't the way he — nor any of the other Ravens — envisioned what began as a magical 2013 ending.

"You have to watch the games, you can't just at the numbers and say, 'That's the problem,'" said wide receiver Torrey Smith, defending his quarterback. "If you're not watching the game, you're not judging anyone fairly. That's fantasy football, looking at the stats. Joe's a warrior for us. He's going to take a lot of heat. He fought through so many things this year. He battled. He didn't quit. He didn't point the finger at anyone. He shouldn't have been in this position heading into the offseason."

Kubiak is key to turning around Joe Flacco

By Jamison Hensley

When the Baltimore Ravens announced Gary Kubiak as offensive coordinator Monday, they also named Rick Dennison as the quarterbacks coach. Make no mistake: Getting Joe Flacco back on track is Kubiak's project.

The Ravens can talk about having a rough and tough philosophy on offense. They can preach about the importance of the running game. How Kubiak will be measured as an offensive coordinator is his impact on Flacco.

It was 11 months ago when the Ravens invested $52 million in guaranteed money in Flacco. Every move this offseason, beginning with the hiring of the offensive coordinator, has to be made with the focus of making Flacco better. If the Ravens want to get back to the Super Bowl, they need the deep-ball-throwing Flacco from January 2013 and not the interception-prone Flacco from last season.

"You definitely build your offense around your quarterback," coach John Harbaugh said. "It starts with Joe, and those are conversations that we've had going forward. So, we are going to do whatever we can to make Joe the best player he can be, and Joe is fired up about that."

This is why it's dumbfounding that it took the Ravens two weeks to complete their search. It should've taken two days. When the Ravens started look for their next play-caller, there were two candidates that stood out from the rest: Kubiak and Norv Turner. And, if the Browns weren't going to give the Ravens permission to speak to Turner, the no-brainer choice was Kubiak.

In 2000, Brian Griese led the NFL with a 102.9 passer rating.

In 2004, Jake Plummer ranked fourth in the league with 4,089 yards passing, one more than Brett Favre.

In 2009, Matt Schaub led the NFL in passing with 4,770 yards.

Three mediocre quarterbacks, three unbelievable results. Flacco has a better tool set than all of those quarterbacks, and even the harshest critic would agree with that. It had to cross the Ravens' mind that, if Kubiak can work this magic with an average-at-best quarterback like Schaub, imagine how much of a positive influence he can have on Flacco.

It comes as no surprise that Kubiak had already chatted with Flacco before his introductory news conference began. Their relationship will go a long ways in turning around the NFL's 29th-ranked offense.

"It's our job to find the things that Joe is comfortable with and to make him as successful as we possibly can. And we'll do that," Kubiak said. "I'm just looking forward to sitting down with Joe and really picking his brain in a lot of ways and [seeing] how he has been taught and what he's done in the past. He's a championship quarterback, and that's all you can ask for as a coach in this league."

This is just the start to the offense's reclamation project. The Ravens need to find another wide receiver. They have to find a way to either keep Dennis Pitta or bring in another pass-catching tight end. They have to bring back Eugene Monroe or get someone else just as reliable to protect Flacco's blind side.

In the end, it comes down to Flacco. The Ravens were Super Bowl champions when he threw 11 touchdowns and no interceptions in the playoffs. Baltimore was an 8-8 team when he had 19 touchdowns and 22 interceptions.

This is why the Ravens needed Kubiak. The Ravens and Flacco are in a much better spot today than they were when the season ended, just based on Kubiak's history with elevating a quarterback's play.

"Joe and I need to sit down together, and I need to talk to him about how he feels with what he's done up to this point -- how he feels about the future and what he thinks he needs to do better," Kubiak said. "I need to take my vision of that and study Joe over the course of the [next few weeks] -- starting here very early [Tuesday] morning. And together, we come up with that plan -- how we make him better, how we progress as a player."

Ravens Hire TEs Coach Brian Pariani, Promote Steve Spagnuolo To Secondary Coach

Steve Spagnuolo is also becoming the team's assistant head coach.

The Ravens have hired Tight Ends Coach Brian Pariani and have appointed Steve Spagnuolo as their new secondary coach. Spagnuolo has also been named the team's assistant head coach.

Pariani replaces the longest-tenured coach on John Harbaugh's staff, Wade Harman, who was with the team from 1999 to 2013.

"Brian has earned a reputation as one of the NFL's top tight ends coaches, and we're excited that he was available and willing to join us," Harbaugh stated.

"Another factor that immediately makes him valuable to us is his familiarity with the offense we want to run. We are making changes on offense, and Brian will be able to help teach and implement them."

Tight ends see a lot of action in Offensive Coordinator Gary Kubiak's offensive system. In 2012, the Texans used the most two-tight end sets in the NFL.

Now Kubiak will have somebody he's very familiar joining him in Baltimore to coach the tight ends. Pariani was Gary Kubiak's tight ends during his entire tenure as head coach in Houston (2006-2013). He was previously a tight ends coach with Kubiak in Denver as well.

Known for being an intense, business-like coach, Pariani has a track record of getting the most out of his tight ends. He has developed strong pass-catching tight ends who are also good at blocking in the Texans' stretch-zone run scheme.

Owen Daniels was a fourth-round pick who became a two-time Pro Bowler (2008 and 2012). Daniels caught 70 passes for 862 yards and two touchdowns in 2008, and 62 passes for 716 yards and six scores in 2012.

Houston's Garrett Graham, another fourth-round pick, turned into a solid receiving option last year when Daniels went down. He caught 49 passes for 545 yards and five touchdowns. Rookie sixth-round pick Ryan Griffin also caught 19 passes for 244 yards and one touchdown last year.

The Ravens will be looking for Pariani to do the same with whatever tight ends they have on the roster next year. They currently only have two tight ends on the roster in Matt Furstenburg and Nathan Overbay.

Dennis Pitta and Ed Dickson are both unrestricted free agents. Pitta said he would “love to stay” and General Manager Ozzie Newsome said “we would like to have Dennis on our football team.”

Pitta is very much in the same mold as Daniels, both as sizeable pass-catching tight ends who can find openings in zones, create mismatches and flex out wide. Fullback Kyle Juszczyk may also work with Pariani and could be more of a pass-catching option in Kubiak’s system.

Spagnuolo, who was a senior defensive assistant last year, will be filling the void left by Teryl Austin’s departure to be Jim Caldwell’s defensive coordinator in Detroit.

Spagnuolo will be returning to being a secondary coach for the first time since he was coaching with Harbaugh in Philadelphia (2001-2003). Although Spagnuolo has been a defensive coordinator (New York Giants, New Orleans Saints) and head coach (St. Louis Rams), his roots are coaching defensive backs.

The Ravens have a talented, young group of defensive backs for Spagnuolo to work with. Cornerback Jimmy Smithemerged last year, and is expected to start opposite Lardarius Webb again in 2014. Rookie Matt Elam started nearly the entire year, and the Ravens could welcome in a new playmaking free safety, according to Newsome’s desires.

Last season, Spagnuolo helped Defensive Coordinator Dean Pees studying opponents and contributed some ideas and insight that were different from what the Ravens had done in the past.

“How fortunate are we to have a former NFL head coach, former defensive coordinator and secondary coach become the Ravens’ coach for our defensive backs?” Harbaugh said.

“Steve is one of the outstanding teachers in the NFL, and he already worked with our defensive staff and players last season as a senior assistant. Our players respect him, and a number of our veteran defensive backs recently said to me that they wanted Steve to coach them.”

Special Teams Coordinator Jerry Rosburg was the team’s assistant head coach, and has moved up to associate head coach.

Byrne Identity: John Harbaugh A Non-Factor? Please!

By Kevin Byrne

January 28, 2014

You want to know the real story behind the hiring of Gary Kubiak? Here it is, without reading someone’s mind.

(For this Friday, I was planning to write about the hiring of Gary Kubiak and everything I saw over the past couple of weeks in our search for a new offensive coordinator. Instead, I decided to do this today after reading a column in the Baltimore Sun this morning and then hearing some sports talk show hosts repeat what that column proclaimed.

The columnist tweeted this on Monday: “Finger prints of owner, Steve Bisciotti, and general manager Ozzie Newsome all over possible Kubiak hiring. Harbaugh was non-factor.” Columnist then came back this morning with quotes from Ozzie Newsome’s brain: “John, you’ve got one chance to get this right. If you don’t, you could lose the right to name future coaches…”

C’mon Man! This franchise, the Baltimore Ravens, is very well respected for being run the right way, for winning and for letting people do their jobs. Harbaugh a non-factor? Please! Do any of you think that Steve and Ozzie are giving ultimatums to the head coach who won the last Super Bowl played and is the first coach in NFL history to lead teams to the playoffs for five-consecutive years and win at least one game in each of those postseasons?

Hey, it’s a collaborative effort here. We trust each other. We bounce things off each other. What was reported was wrong! Here’s what I know – what I saw with my eyes and heard with my ears – not reading anyone’s mind about the hiring of Gary Kubiak.)

The Hiring Of Gary Kubiak

“When John [Harbaugh] told us that he didn’t want to leave any stone unturned, he meant it,” general manager Ozzie Newsome chuckled this morning.

"His process for hiring the offensive coordinator was typical John: thorough, tireless and consuming. Ever since Jim [Caldwell] was hired by the Lions, John seemed to spend all of his waking hours working to find the right guy," Newsome said.

Coach Caldwell was named Detroit's head coach on Jan. 14.

"I knew Jim had a legitimate shot to be some team's head coach. I had already started to compile a list of candidates in my mind," Harbaugh explained earlier today. "Before Jim got the job, I also asked Ozzie to canvas our college scouts to get a list of the best at the college level.

"There were obvious ones I thought about right away. There was Jim [Hostler, Ravens wide receivers coach] and the respected coordinators available at the time like Gary [Kubiak], Kyle Shanahan, Brad [Childress], Scott Linehan, Norv Turner, 'Chud' [Rob Chudzinski, who had just been let go as the Browns' head coach].

"There were some [NFL] position coaches I've had my eye on, and Ozzie was a good sounding board here and had some suggestions," Harbs continued. "We brought in Kirby [Wilson, then-Steelers' running backs coach].

"The guys we were immediately serious about seemed serious about us, and there was not a candidate saying, 'Hey, you have to let me know now, or I'm going to another team.' You also had to look at each candidate and make the decision if what he believes in is a fit for us offensively and scheme-wise. You look to find what could fit our players best."

Newsome liked the Harbaugh method. "John was really using the same kind of process we used when we hired him. He was gathering as much information as he could by calling lots of people. We were calling some too and sharing that with him," Newsome explained.

The Interviews Start

The day after Caldwell was named in Detroit, Harbs brought Shanahan to Owings Mills. Within a few days, other coaches visited. Among those arriving were Mike Sullivan [former Tampa Bay OC], Joe Lombardi [formerly of the Saints and the new OC at Detroit] and Charlie Taaffe, the OC at Central Florida, who is a hot name in the coaching world right now.

Harbaugh brought some back for second interviews, all the while making calls on the candidates and listening to others who wanted their hats in the Ravens' ring. (When John brought Shanahan and Wilson back for second interviews, he had each sit with the Ravens' defensive staff to answer questions and present offensive philosophies. Harbs made Hostler do the same. Typical of Harbs, he was being very thorough.)

Mystery Candidate Pops Up

Those second interviews concluded last Friday (Jan. 24) afternoon. And, just when I thought we were close to hiring the coordinator, a new coach came up. A prominent NFC offensive coordinator was interested in the job. When I left the office late that afternoon, Harbs said: "Stand by. We could have a coordinator tomorrow – or, it could be next week. There's another candidate in the mix. And, I'm still calling some guys about the coaches we interviewed."

As it turned out, the NFC team refused permission for us to talk with the prominent OC. However, one of the calls John made was to Rick Dennison, who had been the offensive coordinator for the Texans the last four years. Harbaugh was calling Dennison to talk about Shanahan, because Kyle and Rick had worked together in Houston and Denver.

"Before that conversation with Rick, I was ready to make the call between 'Hoss' [Hostler] and Kyle, two really good coaches. In my conversations with Rick, he suggested reaching out to Gary," Harbaugh explained. "We had discussed Kubiak early in the process, but Gary was a head-coaching candidate, and we knew he had turned down some teams for the offensive coordinator position.

"I called Gary on Saturday, and we had a long conversation. We found that we agreed on many of the fundamentals needed to make an offense great, and he agreed to fly to Baltimore as soon as he could. I let Ozzie know and asked him to help get more information on Gary. Ozzie called Rick Smith [the general manager] of the Texans to get a little more of a feel about where Gary was at right now. Oz called me back and said Rick was very strong on Gary – very positive.

"I called Steve [Bisciotti], who was in Florida, and let him know [the NFC coordinator] was not allowed to interview with us and that I had talked with Gary Kubiak and invited him to interview," Harbaugh continued. "Gary was here Sunday afternoon, and we met at my house. By the end of the evening, I knew we had the right guy.

"On Monday morning, Gary and I met again [at the Under Armour Performance Center]. We talked about the structure of the offense, along with the day-to-day coaching and operations – basically, how the offense would be coordinated. After that, I offered him the job, and he said, 'Yes.'"

All About Timing

Sometimes it's all about timing.

"I think if we had reached out to Gary when Jim left for the Lions, I don't think we would have gotten him," Harbaugh said this afternoon.

Coach Kubiak agreed. "I wasn't ready to talk about coordinators' jobs two weeks ago and turned down some respected opportunities," Kubiak told me today. "I was thinking about those head-coaching jobs that were open, and my wife and I had talked about the possibility of sitting [out of the NFL] for a year. Truth is, I was looking for something to hit me right between the eyes. The Ravens' job did."

Judging by the smiles around here, that bull's-eye is the target that will move us to a better offense in the 2014 season.

What a coup! Gary Kubiak, recognized as one of the NFL's best coordinators and play-callers, is a Raven. Now that's a good start to the offseason.

Talk with you soon,

Kevin

P.S. By the way, Ozzie made a strong point to me this morning about Jim Caldwell. "I get so angry when I hear or read that John was going to fire Jim if the Lions had not made him their head coach. That is so completely wrong, untrue and really unfair to Jim. Harbs told me he was bringing him back. That's the truth. How does that other stuff get out there as real? Don't you have to have some facts to report before you can say that?"

New Ravens quarterbacks coach Rick Dennison has diverse coaching background

Dennison played linebacker in the NFL, has coached offensive line, special teams, and coordinated Texans and Broncos offenses

By Aaron Wilson
The Baltimore Sun
January 28, 2014

Rick Dennison was a linebacker by trade for nine seasons with the Denver Broncos, not a quarterback.

Although Dennison has never been a quarterbacks coach before, he's worked closely with them in his capacity as an offensive coordinator.

Now, Dennison is Ravens quarterback Joe Flacco's position coach.

Dennison has a unique background as a coach having been an offensive coordinator for the Houston Texans and Broncos and coaching the offensive line and special teams along the way during 19 seasons as an NFL coach.

Dennison is also expected to operate as Gary Kubiak's right-hand man and confidant as the new Ravens offensive coordinator installs his system. Dennison can pass on Kubiak's terminology, philosophy and plays to the quarterbacks and work in an advisory capacity to Kubiak as they formulate game plans and give input into the direction of the offense during games.

"Dennison is a real smart guy," former Texans offensive tackle Eric Winston said in a telephone interview. "Kubiak and him are close friends. I wouldn't be surprised if Kubiak is in a lot of quarterback meetings, especially at the beginning."

Dennison has drawn praise for his intelligence.

He's a former math teacher who holds a graduate degree in civil engineering.

"I think Rick is a good hire because he really understands Kubiak's offense," NFL Films analyst Greg Cosell said. "He'll be able to get everything across to Joe in the quarterback meetings where they spend a great deal of their time in those individual meetings. There will be symmetry between what Kubiak is trying to get done and what Rick is telling the quarterbacks each day."

Dennison, 55, interviewed for the Chicago Bears' head coaching job last season that ultimately went to Marc Trestman and is highly regarded in NFL circles.

It's his connection with Kubiak that could aid Flacco's transition to a new offense.

“The last few years, being a coordinator with Gary in Houston, I was predominantly in the quarterback room," Dennison said during Monday's introductory news conference. "I know how he thinks with a quarterback, how he coaches a quarterback, having spent my time with him.

"But also I’m going to touch as many areas as I can. I know what kind of system he likes, run and pass, having dealt with it for a long time. So, I’ll try to do as much as I can to help that whole process.”

In 2012, the Texans established a franchise record with an average of 26 points per game. They finished seventh in total offense, averaging 372.1 yards per game as seven Texans were named to the Pro Bowl.

Houston quarterback Matt Schaub had a disastrous season last year and was benched as he passed for 2,310 yards, 10 touchdowns and 14 interceptions.

The previous season, Schaub passed for 4,008 yards, 22 touchdowns and 12 interceptions.

“Rico is one of the best offensive line coaches in the NFL,” former Broncos quarterback Jay Cutler said during a radio interview last year, referencing Dennison's nickname. “Great guy off the field. Very, very smart. Intellectual guy. I have a lot of respect for him.”

Dennison is a proponent of the zone-blocking schemes taught to him by Alex Gibbs, the architect of that offense.

Because of his acumen with several positions, Dennison could emerge as an all-around trouble-shooter for the Ravens' offense.

"Dennison can coach running backs," Winston said. "He can coach the line. He can coach tight ends. He can help build the game plan. He's very valuable as a versatile coach."

Ravens coach John Harbaugh envisions Dennison having a multi-faceted role that brings a level of knowledge to each position group.

"We have an opportunity to be really well-organized," Harbaugh said. "We have a chance to tie the whole thing together, and to me that’s the most important thing. We’re going to have a chance to take the quarterback room and tie it to the running back, tight end, the offensive line, the wide receivers. And that’s what Rick is going to give us a chance to do.

"Having been in the system so many times before, he’ll be an extension of Gary in the quarterback room, but also across the whole offense. That’s what got me excited about him. We talked about this. It’s a unique way of doing it, and it’s going to be a really effective way of doing it.”

Flacco is coming off a rough season where he threw a franchise-record 22 interceptions and finished with a career-low 73.1 quarterback rating. He threw 19 touchdown passes for the NFL's 29th-ranked offense.

Flacco was hampered by an offensive line that allowed him to be sacked a career-high 48 times. Starting running back Ray Rice rushed for just 660 yards while dealing with hip and quadriceps injuries.

"Joe has been very successful and done a lot of great things, but there’s a lot of pressure playing that position and a lot is expected of you," said Kubiak, a former Broncos quarterback who backed up Hall of Fame quarterback John Elway. "If anything, I feel very comfortable helping Joe through his years of growth as a player, because I’ve been with so many guys and seen how that has to take place. This league is about rebounding.

"You’re going to have tough times, you’re going to have tough days and maybe some years don’t go the way you want them to go, but you keep battling and it’s about the long haul. There’s no doubt in my mind, when Joe is said and done, he’s already a championship quarterback, but there’s a lot of great things left to happen and I’m looking forward to being part of that.”

A Step Backward Was The Right Step For 2013 Baltimore Ravens

By Samuel Njoku
CBS Baltimore
December 31, 2013

What a difference a year makes for the Baltimore Ravens. Around this time last season, the Ravens were preparing for a postseason run that resulted in a Super Bowl championship. But now, Baltimore heads home without a chance to truly defend the title they earned back in February. Gone were the miracle plays on fourth and 29 that shook the foundation of the NFL. Gone were the talks of destiny that had even the most skeptical of pundits believing in the purple and black. Instead, the 2013 NFL season ended with a thud. As bland as the 8-8 record itself, the Baltimore Ravens were an average team at best.

The Super Bowl curse, a term used to define a team whose rise to the mountain top is immediately followed by a crash down to earth, was not a culprit in the demise of this season. The curse is as real as the Easter Bunny and may be twice as ridiculous. The reality of the Ravens situation is much more convoluted.

Baltimore, fresh off one of the most spectacular championship runs in recent history, faced a serious dilemma that could not be taken lightly by the front office. Should the Ravens take another shot at greatness, or take a step back to open up the opportunity for multiple championships down the road? The Ravens made their decision rather quickly.

“We will not repeat what we did in 2001,” stated Ravens GM Ozzie Newsome days after winning his second title in Baltimore. “We are trying to build where we can win Super Bowls more than just one more time.”

And so the Ravens did what few champions do during their reign. They removed pieces – essential pieces. Ray Lewis walked off into the sunset with Matt Birk close behind. Ed Reed wasn’t brought back and Bernard Pollard was kicked out. Ozzie Newsome practically gave Anquan Boldin away while Paul Kruger and Dannell Ellerbe sought greener pastures in the form of the all mighty dollar.

When it was all said and done, only one man remained. The one who got them to the promised land in the first place. Joe Flacco would be the man to get the job done, whether he liked it or not. But surrounding the $120 million dollar quarterback were holes. Self inflicted wounds that littered the Ravens roster. Baltimore would be forced to patch the holes and the workmanship was shoddy at best. The Ravens acquired some gems in Marlon Brown and Daryl Smith. But they were overshadowed by duds like Michael Huff and Marcus Spears.

If the Ravens were trying to win a championship in 2013, they failed miserably. But that wasn’t the case for this football team. Baltimore was clearly a team looking to take one step back in order to take three steps forward. That’s not to say the Ravens weren’t disappointed. This is an organization that prides itself on winning. And both fans and personnel didn’t like what they saw.

The Ravens will have to make a few more moves this off-season before truly propelling themselves back to prominence. It all begins with their offensive line, which played so awful this year that it looked like they were playing for the other team at times. The cosmetic changes will be drastic to both player and coaching personnel – as they should. And while the Ravens are pleased with the progress of Torrey Smith, they’re still searching for that top 10 wide receiver to help take Flacco’s game to the next level.

The aforementioned moves will cost money and that may force Ravens fans to witness a few prominent players wearing different colored attire in 2014. But every move made by Baltimore will be for the greater good of the football team. It’s why they won a championship last season, and it’s why they’ll almost certainly win another one in the future. The Ravens took the necessary steps in 2013, even if those steps were backwards.

Pettine latest coach from Ravens' pipeline

By Jamison Hensley

You want to be an NFL coach? I suggest you send a resume to the Baltimore Ravens.

Mike Pettine became the latest former Ravens assistant to land an NFL head coaching job when the Cleveland Browns hired him Thursday. In total, there have been 13 former Ravens coaches who have eventually become NFL head coaches. Seven of the current 32 NFL head coaches -- 21 percent -- have roots with the Ravens: Pettine (Browns), Marvin Lewis (Bengals), Rex Ryan (Jets), Mike Smith (Falcons), Chuck Pagano (Colts), Jim Caldwell (Lions) and Ken Whisenhunt (Titans).

This is an amazingly high number, especially when you consider this is a franchise that has been in existence for 18 years.

Pettine joined Caldwell and Whisenhunt as former Ravens assistants who were hired as NFL coaches this season. Pettine's first NFL coaching job was with the Ravens in 2002 as a coaching assistant. He eventually became the team's outside linebackers coach before leaving with Ryan in 2009 to go to the New York Jets.

The reason for this pipeline is because other teams want to tap into the Ravens' success, especially on the defensive side of the ball. Lewis, the Ravens' first defensive coordinator, became the Cincinnati Bengals' head coach in 2003 after a one-year stint with the Washington Redskins. Mike Nolan, who replaced Lewis as the Ravens' defensive coordinator, was hired as the San Francisco 49ers head coach in 2005. Ryan, who took over for Nolan, became the New York Jets' head coach in 2009. Three years later, Pagano went from being the Ravens' defensive coordinator to the Indianapolis Colts' head coach.

Other former Ravens defensive assistants who have become head coaches are: Pettine, Mike Smith, Jack Del Rio, Mike Singletary and Jim Schwartz. This isn't a surprise when you consider the Ravens regularly have ranked among the best defenses over the last 14 seasons. Middle linebacker Ray Lewis used to joke that he should get a commission for the amount of Ravens defensive coaches who have become head coaches.
